[illegible] THE "POST."

[illegible] 14.—The Post says: "At 11:25 a [illegible] boys stood in front of the pay[illegible] Metropolitan bank at [illegible] streets, of which Geo. I. Seney [illegible] person in the line held one [illegible] certified—alarming rumors as to [illegible] direction having made uncerti[illegible] no matter by whom signed. Just [illegible] paying teller shut his window [illegible] The Metropolitan bank has sus[illegible] a matter of necessity and pr[illegible] of dismay went up from the [illegible] was made for the door, where [illegible] were met hurrying in to get [illegible] suspension. In less than [illegible] door was shut and a policeman w[illegible] on the stairs.

[illegible] FOR DEPOSITORS.

[illegible] to large depositors, who arrived [illegible] was that the suspension [illegible] in order to prevent a run, [illegible] not be prepared. It was said [illegible] the matter quieted this after[illegible] in time for some business [illegible]. This promise was accepted [illegible] small comfort, and after 12 o'clock a crowd of nearly 100 persons had gathered in front of the bank, bewailing their prospective loss of deposits. Two women who had drafts upon the bank were in tears upon the bottom step. Among the depositors who appeared to know anything about the suspension it was said the immediate cause was a demand for more than half a million by the clearing house to make good its account.

THE CAUSE OF THE SUSPENSION.

The railroad speculations of President Seney are generally supposed to be the real cause of the suspension. Mr. Seney is president of the East Tennessee and Virginia railroad, the stock of which is selling to-day at 5 for common and 9 for preferred. Large blocks of this stock were bought less than a year ago, it is supposed on account of Seney, for 12 for common and 24 for preferred. This stock has been selling down ever since, notwithstanding constant support from what is known as the Seney syndicate. The Ohio Central is supposed to be another of Seney's favorite stocks, upon which large sums were lost in the declining prices.

The first rumors of Seney's difficulties came soon after the announcement of the failure of Nelson Robinson. As Robinson is a son-in-law of Seney's, and one of Seney's sons is a member of the firm of Nelson Robinson & Co., it is supposed Seney would not have allowed the firm to go under had he not been badly crippled himself. At the office of Nelson Robinson & Co., Nelson Robinson said: "The failure was occasioned by calls for money from all quarters, which could not be immediately met, by the general shrinkage of securities, the disturbed condition of the times, and the circulation of disquieting rumors. We will be unable to furnish a statement of our liabilities and assets." Most of their loans were well protected, if the holders did not lose their heads and want to get their money in a day.

THE EXCITEMENT SUBSIDES.

WALL STREET, May 14.—At 1:30 the excitement had subsided to a great extent, and a better feeling prevailed, but the situation is by no means settled. There is a general impression that the end is not yet. The largest dealer in privileges on the street has been obliged to receive 200,000 shares on "puts." This large block must have called for a heavy drawing, even on his immense resources.

It is stated that Secretary Folger has been invited to the meeting of the clearing house, and the result of their conference is awaited with much interest. Drexel, Morgan & Co. have received word from their Philadelphia house that they have all the money wanted. The board of managers of the stock exchange have posted official notice that the exchange will not close until the usual hour. Rumors affecting several national banks continue flying about the streets, but none is traceable to the source.

2:10 P. M.—As settling hour approaches the rush of boys delivering stocks adds to the excitement. District telegraph boys and clerks and attaches of brokers offices are all brought into requisition, and the scene on the street is one of intense activity.

THE CLEARING HOUSE MEETING.

2:50 P. M.—The clearing house association has just adjourned, after adopting the following: "Resolved, That in view of the present crisis the banks of this association should take steps for the purpose of sustaining each other and the business community. Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to receive from banks that are members of this association securities to be approved by said committee, who are authorized to issue therefor to such depositing banks certificates bearing interest at 6 per cent. per annum, not in excess of 75 per cent. of the securities or bills receivable so deposited, except in case of United States bonds, and said certificates shall be received in settlement of balances at the clearing house. The following gentlemen compose the committee: F. D. Tappen, George S Coe, J. D. Vermilye, George G. Williams, W. A. Wall and Edward S. Perkins.

2.55 P. M.—Hotchkiss & Burnham have just announced their suspension at the stock exchange.

DIRECTORS INTERVIEWED.

A representative of the associated press has just interviewed a prominent director of the Metropolitan bank, who says emphatically that the depositors will be paid in full. The directors have gone through all the securities, and throwing out all classed as doubtful have more than sufficient to pay the depositors. The suspension is solely due to the fact that depositors throughout the country have become scared through attacks on the president of the bank, Mr. Seney, and had inaugurated a general withdrawal of their deposits. This fact, coupled with the general mistrust engendered from the critical situation in speculative circles, caused the bank to suspend. It is stated that the bank is not likely to resume. Solon Humphreys, a director, states that had the president laid before the clearing house a full statement of the affairs there would have been no need of suspension, as the associated banks would undoubtedly have come to its assistance, and helped it over the crisis.

Settlements for the day have all been made.

Hotchkiss & Burnham have suspended.

Hatch & Foote have made an assignment to Henry A. Keighley, without preferences.

Rumors that the Metropolitan bank was indebted to Donnell, Lawson & Simpson were untrue. The fact is the firm owes the bank $100,000, but has securities pledged for more than that.

Money is now loaning for 1 per cent. per diem.

ANOTHER BANK FAILURE.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The Atlantic state bank of Brooklyn closed its doors this afternoon. This bank is the Brooklyn correspondent of the Metropolitan bank. Capital, $200,000; surplus, $100,000. The president is George Peiffer.

WALL STREET NOTES.

The gong at the stock exchange has sounded, and one of the most exciting days in the history of that institution has closed.

In Wall street it is reported that Drexel, Morgan & Co. had $1,000,000 in the Metropolitan bank. A member of the firm denied this, saying it had withdrawn its large account at that bank two years ago. Another report is that the Atlantic Mutual Insurance company deposited $1,000,000 in the Phœnix National bank this morning.

Grant & Ward's statement was not ready to-day.

Stocks were firmer this afternoon.

SUSPENSION OF DONNELL, LAWSON & SIMPSON.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Donnell, Lawson & Simpson have announced suspension. They are large dealers in county, water and city bonds. They are said to have $2,000,000 with the suspended Metropolitan bank. The firm say: "Owing to a general panic prevailing we believe it best to suspend until we can see where we stand."

THE GRANT & WARD FAILURE.

NEW YORK, May 14—The supreme court to-day granted an injunction in favor of the Buffalo, New York and Philadelphia railway, restraining U. S. Grant and others from disposing of bonds of the railroad company.

RECAPITULATION.

At the Continental bank it was stated, before business to-day, that A. Daggett & Co's contracts would be taken care of by Wm. Heath & Co. This was subsequently corroborated by official notification to the stock exchange that Wm. Heath & Co. would settle with members of the exchange for all stocks bought or sold, borrowed or loaned, previous to this date.

After the opening of the board the suspension of Nelson, Robinson & Co., Goff & Randall, O. M. Bogart & Co., J. C. Williams and Hatch & Foote were read from the rostrum of the exchange, and under a sharp pressure to sell prices broke 1 to 12 per cent., the decline being accelerated by liquidations and by sales of thousands of shares under rule for account of suspended firms. The decline was subsequently checked by the action of Secretary Folger in ordering the prepayment of the 127th call for bonds.

A TEMPORARY RALLY.

Bank Examiner Scriba who had been requested to investigate the affairs of the Second National bank, reported that institution solvent. The effect on the market was favorable, and a rally of ½ to 4 per cent. took place. Soon afterward rumors were circulated that the Metropolitan bank was in trouble. This story was denied for a time, but after 11 o'clock the bank stopped payment and closed its doors. This brought out renewed offerings, and there was a fresh break. Compared with the highest prices of the morning there was a decline in Missouri Pacific of 10⅞ to 67½, Central Pacific 6¾ to 34, Quincy 5¾ to 112, Northwestern 8¼ to 99, do preferred 8 to 125, St. Paul 8¼ to 65, Rock Island 6⅛ to 109¼, Lackawanna 4¼ to 103, Delaware and Hudson 6⅛ to 99½, Louisville, 8¼ to 32¼, New Jersey Central 4 to 73, New York Central 4¼ to 106¾, Northern Pacific preferred 7½ to 43, Oregon and Transcontinental 1½ to 10⅞, Pacific Mail 7⅞ to 31, Omaha preferred 9½ to 81, Union Pacific 4⅞ to 35, and Western Union 4 to 49.

MONEY, BONDS AND STOCKS.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Money was stronger and loaned up to 7 per cent.; closed 3 per diem. Prime mercantile paper, 1@5½; sterling exchange, bankers' bills, dull at $4 87; sterling exchange, demand, $4 89.

Bonds—3s, 100¼; 4½s 112¾; 4s, 122½; Pacific 6s, 125.

Stocks—American Express 92, Canada Pacific, 44½, Canada Southern 38, Central Pacific 37⅞, Fargo 100, Western Union 53½, Delaware Lackawanna & Western [illegible], Denver & Rio Grande 10¼, Erie 13½, Hannibal & St. Joe 35, Kansas & Texas 13¼, Lake Shore 90, Louisville & Nashville 34¼, Michigan Central 68, Northern Pacific 19¼, N. P. preferred 44¼, New York Central [illegible], Oregon Navigation 75, Oregon and Transcontinental 12¾, Oregon Improvement 19, Pacific Mail 36, Panama [illegible], Union Pacific 41, U. S. Express 55.

The News at Other Points.

THE SITUATION AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, May 14, 10:10 A. M.—Thus far on 'change the day has been a tumultuous one. The depression in Wall street had its visible reflection here, and accompanying the downward tendency in stocks a great decline in prices occurred in the grain market. The effect was particularly felt in wheat, where the opening prices were nearly a cent under the lowest figures yesterday.

In the face of panicky news from New York the markets here, after the early decline, have shown great steadiness. July wheat fell off to 87⅝, but has risen again to 88¾, and displays considerable strength, under the heavy offerings. July corn is quoted firm at 57⅞@58.

CHICAGO, May 14, 2 P. M.—There has probably never been in the history of Chicago a time when reports were more industriously circulated with a view of breaking the grain markets than at present, but they stood the strain upon them without wavering. Interviews with every leading banker in the city tend to show that the New York panic can have no lasting effect here. It is contended that the banks which have failed in New York are what are known as speculative banks, and should have no effect upon conservative banks, even of the metropolis. Regarding the effect here, one banker is quoted as declaring that Chicago banks have a plethora of money, and that the city to-day is a financial Gibraltar which can be assaulted, but not injured.

AT WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The comptroller of the currency early this morning telegraphed Bank Examiner Scriba at New York to go to the Second National and investigate rumors of trouble, and received in reply the following telegram: "A run is being made on the Second National bank. Have secured guarantee for all deficiency, and money will be supplied the bank until the run ceases. The capital is intact, with a small surplus. Particulars by mail." The comptroller subsequently received a private telegram saying: "The Metropolitan National bank has closed its doors, and there is great excitement in New York, but no general panic." He thereupon telegraphed Scriba to go to the Metropolitan National bank. He replied as follows: "The Metropolitan has closed its doors. I have taken charge and await instructions." The comptroller instructed Scriba to remain in charge. In reference to the condition of the banks of the country at large, the comptroller says they seem to be in exceptionally strong condition, most of them carrying unusually large reserves.

CONGRESSMEN INTERESTED.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The tumble in stocks in New York to-day caused quite a panic among congressmen. Many of them are personally interested in stocks, some carrying large lots and others taking small ventures. Frequently there was a constant run of members from the floor of the house to the little telegraph office in the lobby, where the latest quotations are bulletined, and a good many long faces are observed among those returning.

APPOINTED RECEIVER.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The comptroller of currency has appointed Walter S. Johnston receiver of the Marine National bank of New York.

IN SAN FRANCISCO.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—This being a legal holiday the banks are closed, and it is impossible to learn the effect of the New York failures. The Metropolitan bank had no regular correspondent in this city, and no losses are expected.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The Chronicle to-morrow will publish an interview with William Alvord, president of the Bank of California, and representatives of other leading banks of this city. They concur in the view that the panic in New York will have absolutely no effect upon this coast, except perhaps to stiffen rates, which have been very low for some time past. They all agree in the opinion also that the panic cannot be of long duration, because of the fact that the balance of trade has been strong in favor of the United States; and that the country is in a condition to stand a much greater shock than this. They also point out the fact that values of all kinds are so low that they cannot go much lower.

AT PITTSBURG.

PITTSBURG, May 14.—Rumors of heavy failures at New York and the report that the stock exchange had closed its doors demoralized the oil trade here, and intense excitement prevailed at the petroleum exchanges. The market opened feverish at 91, and advanced ¼, when there was a general stampede, caused by reports of the Wall street disasters. Immense blocks of certificates were dumped on the market, and for a few minutes prices dropped to 87. Heavy buying by shorts had the effect of partially restoring confidence at this juncture, and prices rallied slightly, but telegrams announcing the failure of the Metropolitan bank quickly destroyed the good effect of the short purchases, and the trade became panic stricken and the market declined rapidly to 81¼, closing at noon at 81½, with the feeling weak and unsettled. So far no failures are reported.

THE NEWS AT MILWAUKEE.

MILWAUKEE, May 14.—Alexander Mitchell, president of the Milwaukee and St. Paul road, says he has received no word of the Metropolitan bank of New York failing, and cannot believe the rumor. The Metropolitan is one of the banks for the deposit of Milwaukee and St. Paul funds, but they have not placed a very large line of securities with the bank, because the latter allowed no interest. Even had the bank failed, Mr. Mitchell says, the Milwaukee and St. Paul company would not be in the least affected. He added that it could only be a temporary suspension, anyhow.

AT BOSTON.

BOSTON, May 14.—Banks at Boston acting as correspondents for the suspended Metropolitan bank of New York were visited with a view of ascertaining the amount of balance between them and the Metropolitan. In each case the officers stated that the balance was small, and in no wise affected them.

SUSPENSION AT PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—The suspension of Charles M. Bayard, stock broker, is announced. His liabilities are not heavy.

THE SWAIM AFFAIR.

He is Suspected of Appropriating Garfield Memorial Funds to his Private Use.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—[Special.]—In the winter of 1882-83 a fair was held in the capitol building for the benefit of the Garfield memorial fund. The treasurer of the fund is Judge Advocate General D. G. Swaim, who is now on trial before the court of inquiry appointed by the secretary of war to investigate certain charges made against the integrity of that officer by A. E. Bateman & Co., bankers of this city, with whom General Swaim has had business transactions. On the 4th of June, 1883, Swaim turned over to the secretary of the society of the Army of the Cumberland money received by him as treasurer of the memorial fund. No itemized statement has ever been published, so far as can be learned, of the money received by him, and officers of the army interested in the matter have, since General Swaim's arraignment before the court of inquiry, made an investigation of this matter. The result of their inquiries thus far has been by no means satisfactory. Swaim, it is said, turned over to the society of the Army of the Cumberland about $7000, but it is averred that beyond this sum there was over $1000 of the fund not accounted for at that time (June 4, 1883), which the treasurer, temporarily, at least, appropriated to his own use.

A SIDE FUND.

When the proposition to establish a memorial to the memory of the murdered president was made, and subscriptions were solicited, it was felt that the bankers of Washington ought to contribute something toward the fund of the Garfield memorial fair, and A. E. Bateman decided that he would himself visit all the banks with a subscription paper, and receive their contributions. He did so, and received $1064 96. He said to Swaim, "I have collected this amount of money, and what shall I do with it?" Swaim said, "Deposit it in your own bank, and when the time comes I will draw it out." All other moneys that were collected and all other receipts were deposited in the National Metropolitan bank of Washington, to the credit of Swaim, as treasurer of the Garfield memorial fund, excepting the Bateman collection. On June 4, 1883, six months after the fair, and after Bateman had collected this money from the banks, Swaim turned over to the society of the army of the Cumberland the balance that stood to his credit as treasurer of that fund.

THE MONEY WITHDRAWN.

On August 13, 1883, General Swaim went into Bateman's bank and said that he needed all the ready cash he could raise to pay the man who was building his house, a man named Humphreys, and at that time he drew his check for his balance with Bateman & Co., including the amount belonging to the memorial fund. The check which he drew was as follows:

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13, 1883.

Bateman & Co.—Pay to self, or bearer, $10,436 100.

D. G. SWAIM,

Treasurer G. M. F. (Garfield Memorial Fund.)

At the October meeting of the Army of the Cumberland reports of receipts were read. These reports have not yet been published, but it is understood that they do not include this amount which Swaim drew from Bateman & Co.'s bank. It is possible that Swaim may have included the amount in his check to the Army of the Cumberland before that date, or may have, since that date, made good that amount.

THE ALASKA BILL.

It Passes Without a Single Amendment—The Offices Established.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—[Special.]—Immediately after the reading of the journal yesterday the house, by unanimous consent, took up and passed Senator Harrison's bill establishing civil government for Alaska. There was some debate, during which Budd, Henley, George and Brents of Washington territory made brief speeches, each advocating the passage of the bill.

Eaton of Connecticut, who represents a district in which reside several stockholders of the Alaska Commercial Company, wanted to strike out a part of one section that authorized the new government of Alaska to supervise the affairs of the company, and report irregularities, if any. He said in making a motion to expunge that the secretary of the treasury was already constituted by law to watch the company, and he thought another spy in its affairs was unnecessary.

Henley opposed Eaton, stating that a resolution to investigate the Alaska company was now before the committee on ways and means, and that if the reports about that company were half true it could not be watched too closely. Eaton's motion was defeated, and the bill passed without amendment, in the exact shape in which it went through the senate. It now only needs the signature of the president to become a law.

The bill creates the offices of governor, attorney, judge, marshal, clerk and another commissioner for Alaska, and appropriates $25,000 for education. All these officials are appointed by the president, and besides the fees allowed by law for similar offices in the territories, they are to receive the following annual salaries: Governor $3000, attorney $2500, marshal $2500, judge $3000, clerk $2500. The civil and criminal laws of Oregon are made to operate in Alaska. The bill is substantially the same as one introduced by George of Oregon in last congress, and which came within two votes of passing the house, under suspension of the rules.

There are several candidates for offices in California. Frank Brown, ex-senator of Amador county, has spoken for the governorship, and Ralph Ellis of Lodi, San Joaquin county, a prominent interior journalist, is after the place of marshal. It is expected that Oregon will furnish the judge.

TO EXPLORE THE COUNTRY.

[Special.]—In the senate this afternoon Harrison, from the committee on territories, made a favorable report on Dolph's bill appropriating $50,000 to pay the expenses of an exploring expedition to Alaska. The committee amended the bill so as to put the expedition under the auspices of the president instead of the war department.

MOTION REJECTED.

LONDON, May 14.—Last night Sir Michael Beach's censure motion was rejected by a vote of 303 to 275. Two Parnellites voted with the minority. The debate previous to the vote was excessively animated. Randolph Churchill compared Gladstone's speech with the declaration of Pontius Pilate publicly washing his hands of the blood of the just man. Opponents of the government were much delighted at the decreased majority.

WHAT THE "THUNDERER" THINKS.

LONDON, May 14.—The Times says: The small majority in favor of the government on the censure motion does not represent the predominant and universal conviction of the country. The significant increase in support of Gladstone, the Times says, conveys a warning that can not possibly be ignored.

Treasury Notes.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The secretary of the treasury announces that the department is prepared to redeem bonds embraced in the 127th call, prior to date of maturity, June 20, 1884, with interest to date of presentation.

Condition of the treasury to-day: Gold and bullion, $196,143,551; silver dollars and bullion, $116,271,732; fractional silver, $29,201,674; United States notes, $60,609,361; total, $428,310,918. Certificates outstanding: Gold, $90,864,600; silver, $93,9[illegible]6,511; currency, $15,200,000.

Pittsburg Notes.

PITTSBURG, May 14.—Eight hundred miners, employed at the Falls Creek, St. Mary's and Hardscrabble mines, in DuBois, Penn., struck against the introduction of the screen system. Both sides are firm, and a long struggle is anticipated.

The reported threatened strike of 6000 railroad miners in the Pittsburg district is untrue.

The Western National Association met this morning and reaffirmed the card rate. The trade is reported fair. No action will be taken towards the proposed pool.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 14.

The Utah bill was postponed till Monday.

A bill was reported favorably extending to August 8, 1886, the time to commence laying an ocean cable.

Cockrell said he was not in the chamber when the bill to place General Grant on the retired list passed. Had he been he would have voted against it.

A motion by Cullom to make his inter-state commerce bill a special order for Wednesday, May 21, was not agreed to.

Blair moved to take up the house bill providing for the establishment of a bureau of labor statistics. The motion was opposed by Coke and others, who wished to proceed with the calendar in regular order, but the senate, by a vote of 27 ayes to 12 nays decided to take up the bill, and Blair urged its passage. Pending debate the senate adjourned.

House.

WASHINGTON, May 14.

A resolution was reported unseating McKinley and Peele; laid over. Minority reports were submitted in both cases.

A bill was reported favorably for a mint at St. Louis.

The house went into a committee of the whole on the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, and Burns explained the provisions of the measure.

Cannon severely criticised the bill as niggardly, and denounced the proposition to reduce consular salaries.

Follett defended the bill, ridiculed the pageantry of foreign courts, and asserted that congress should not pander to the whims of courts to which the United States accredited representatives.

Potter made a vigorous attack on the bill.

Robinson (N. Y.) expressed his contempt for the diplomatic service, which he regarded as an unmitigated humbug, nuisance, and school for snobbery. When the proper time came he would make a motion to strike out the appropriation for the minister to Great Britain.

Burns closed the debate in advocacy of the bill, when it was read by paragraphs for amendment.

Robinson—New York—moved to abolish the office of minister to Great Britain. The motion was lost and the committee rose.

Springer asked unanimous consent to put on passage the bill authorizing the secretary of the treasury to purchase about $42,000,000 worth of bonds with greenbacks held in the treasury for redemption of retired national bank circulation which would relieve the money market to the extent of adding $42,000,000 to the circulation. Weller objected. Adjourned.

HEWITT'S TARIFF MEASURE.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—[Special.]—There is little probability that Hewitt's new tariff bill will be reported to the house this session by the ways and means committee. If the committee felt there was any chance of passing a bill for tariff reduction this session it would report it, but they are convinced by the action on the Morrison bill that any bill whatsoever that reduced tariff duties would be opposed by the same combined power that struck the enacting clause out of the Morrison bill. Hewitt, it was reported, thought the committee should report his bill, if they approve it, out of courtesy, and if not he would resign his seat in the house. Hewitt to-day denied the rumor very emphatically, and said it would be very foolish for him to make a personal issue of such a thing. He also denied that he had ever signified any intention to retire from public life. He said he thought that a man might say he was tired of seeing the house fool away its time without the conclusion being jumped to at once that he was going to retire.

Proceedings of the Greenback National Convention at Chicago—Notes.

CHICAGO, May 14.—The national convention of the anti-monopolist party met in Hershey's music hall this afternoon. The hall provided for between 1500 and 1600 delegates, but only a small number were present.

The convention was called to order at 1:30 by John F. Henry, chairman of the national committee. In his opening address he said that the convention had assembled at a time when a panic was raging in Wall street, never before equaled, except by "Black Friday."

A delegate—It could not have come at a better time.

Henry then presented Anson J. Streeter of Illinois for temporary chairman, and he was chosen to that position. During the course of his remarks the chairman referred to the small number present, but declared there were more present than when the declaration of independence was signed [applause]. The cause of the smallness of the convention was that many of its members were too poor to pay their fare, and because the monopolist railroads refused to give them half rates, which would be given delegates to other conventions. The speaker proceeded to say that all the platform he wanted was: "We oppose all monopolies. We believe all men were created free and equal, and we believe in General Benjamin F. Butler." [Applause.]

Committees on credentials, permanent organization and resolutions were appointed from each state.

A STARTLING RESOLUTION.

The call of states showed sixteen states represented. Killmer of New York read a resolution adopted by the executive committee of the anti-monopoly league of New York, April 18, to the effect that it was inexpedient to nominate presidential and vice presidential candidates at this convention; that the matter should be delegated to the national committee or another convention called after the conventions of the republican and democratic parties are held, and that this committee be appointed to attend the convention of the other parties and endeavor to secure the nomination of men pledged to anti-monopoly principles. This caused a ripple of excitement, and after some discussion and several motions the whole matter was laid on the table by a heavy majority.

Recess was taken for half an hour, in order to give the committees time to report.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

Pending consideration of the reports by the committees, the convention listened to speeches by delegates. At 5 o'clock the committee on credentials reported twenty-one states represented by delegates and proxies, with a total membership of 158, and that each delegate be allowed to cast one vote. A minority of the committee reported a resolution that in any state having but a partial delegation, that delegation be allowed to cast the entire vote of the state even though, as in the case of Maryland and some others, only one delegate were present. The matter was discussed at length, and finally the minority report was laid on the table, and the majority report adopted.

The committee on permanent organization reported: For president, John F. Henry of New York, and making the temporary secretaries permanent. Pending report from the committee on platform the convention adjourned till 7:30 P. M.

ONLY TWO PROTESTS.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—It appears probable that there will be but two contested seats in the republican convention at Chicago. The call for the convention required that notice of contests shall be given to the national committee, accompanied by full printed statements of the grounds of the contest. Up to date only two notices of contest have been filed, one from the first district of Alabama and the other from the first district of Georgia. In the latter case only have the requirements been complied with by filing printed statements of the grounds of contest. The absence of contests indicates the probability of a brief session of the convention.

NEW JERSEY DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

TRENTON, N. J., May 14.—The democratic state convention was presided over by Senator McPherson, who said he did not care under whose banner the democracy fought, it would only raise small issues and fight against the corrupt republican party.

Governor Abbett served as temporary chairman. District delegates were chosen as follows: First, A. J. Steelman and Daniel F. Green; third, Willard Ross and B. W. Brown; fourth, M. O. Swartzweller and Senator Carpenter; fifth, Thomas J. Flynn and Carman F. Randolph; sixth, Assemblyman Harrigan and Gottfried Krueger; seventh, Orestes Cleveland and Martin Hedges. Recess.

VIRGINIA DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

RICHMOND, May 14.—The democratic state convention was called to order by Hon. John S. Barbour, chairman of the state committee. Committees on credentials, permanent organization and resolutions were appointed, and district delegations chosen.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

RICHMOND, Va., May 14.—The state democratic committee has perfected arrangements for the state convention to-day. John T. Harris is temporary chairman of the convention.

TERRIBLE TRAIN DISASTER.

A Wrecked Car Takes Fire and a Number of Men are Burned to Death.

PITTSBURG, May 14.—About 10 this morning a collision occurred on the Baltimore and Ohio road, at a point one mile east of Connellsville, between a freight train bound west, and a construction train, which resulted in terrible loss of life. The construction train, consisting of six cars, containing fifty laborers on the way to work, was telescoped, and the men were crushed to death, and many of those who escaped were terribly injured. The names of the killed are not yet received. There is a sharp curve where the accident occurred, and both trains came together with a crash. The cars are burning and the bodies are being cremated.

AN AWFUL SCENE OF DEATH.

The engines remained on the track and telescoped each other, but the heavy tenders jumped into the air and fell, the freight tender upon its engine, and gravel train tender back upon the first car in the rear of it. Here was the scene of death. Six men were killed outright in this car, and four others, fastened down by the broken timbers, were roasted to death, the car taking fire from the overturned stove, and burning up before the stupefied survivors could comprehend the awful situation of their shrieking companions. Three men escaped from the car. The wreck itself was a ghastly sight. The tender of the freight train stood thirty feet in the air, and inside of the car that was burned could be seen, amid the glowing embers, twisted iron rods and dead ashes, three grinning skeletons, one sitting bolt upright, apparently peering into the flames that had smothered out his life, as well as those of his companions.

At noon a large force of shop hands were on the ground extinguishing the flames, and a train was at work pulling away the debris and rescuing the burned remains. The charred remains of four victims have just been taken out. The remains were reverently placed on a board, carried aside and laid down upon the green grass, spotted with purple forest flowers. A lean and hungry looking mountain dog sniffed around the flesh, and licking its lips descended upon the remains. Fortunately he was discovered and driven away. It is expected that the wreck will be cleared up this evening. Officials of the road decline to say who is to blame.

Wool growers in the neighborhood of Heppner, to the number of over forty, have called a meeting to be held June 5th to form a wool growers' association.

The little son of C. W. Stone of Astoria met with an accident Tuesday evening in falling from a wagon seat, the wheels of the vehicle passing over him, fortunately inflicting but slight damage.

It is ascertained that the dead body which came ashore at Scarborough head, on Monday, is the body of Olaf Furre, who was lost from one of the boats of the Pacific Union Packing Company on the 4th inst.

Astorian: The furniture firm of El. D. Curtis & Co. Tuesday made an assignment for the purpose of settling up the business. The liabilities are reported to be $14,000; the assets will probably be equal to that amount. C. F. McCormac is the assignee.

There is a slight improvement reported in the run of salmon this week; the fish are not up to the usual size, averaging about fifteen cans to the fish. The pack is considerably behind that of the corresponding date last season, but as two lucky days in June or July would make a difference of several thousand cases, it is too early to predict anything in relation to the outcome.

Yaquina Post: Grading on the O. P. R. R. is progressing finely in the locality of Toledo. Several gangs, having finished up below us, have moved to the front, which is proof enough that the officers of the road are pushing the work to the best of their ability. About 120 Chinamen came in this week to work on the railroad, and many more are coming as soon as the roads get better.

Washington Territory.

Gray's Harbor News: The heavy fall of rain for the past few days has necessitated the shutting down of logging camps until the weather becomes more settled.

Seattle Chronicle: The present season promises to be one of the most prolific for all kinds of wild fruit ever known in this territory. The rains and warm sunshine have brought out millions of blossoms.

Captain George D. Hill, of Seattle, one of the territorial delegates to the Chicago republican national convention, has started for the east. John L. Wilson, the other delegate from Washington territory, will leave for Chicago in a few days.

The Seattle Chronicle learns that there have been several cases in north Seattle in the past week of a malignant disease known as "black measles." In one family, that of Mr. Wells, two young daughters, are now very low with it, with grave fears for their lives.

The sexton's house at the Walla Walla cemetery was destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon, together with a little furniture and about thirty yards of lumber. The origin of the blaze is unknown. The loss is estimated at $700 or $800, and there was no insurance.

William Tillman, while working for Johnson & Ejossem at the saw mill up on Wilson creek, Yakima valley, was seriously hurt a few days ago by having a log roll over him. His head and limbs were badly hurt and fears are entertained that his injury may prove fatal.

Says a Seattle exchange: Some idea of the rapid growth of the country lying on the east side of the sound and north of Seattle, may be gathered from the statement that the average mail per week sent north runs about sixty sacks. Every day almost, valuable immigration passes into that country.

Sunday the roof of H. H. Snow's hotel at Renton took fire from a spark, and had not the flames been discovered immediately the entire building would have been destroyed. The building was insured, but the contents, which were more or less damaged, were not. The loss to Mr. Snow, over and above the insurance, will probably amount to $300.

Saturday morning a 2 year-old son of Thomas Donald, a coal miner at Newcastle, met with a terrible accident, resulting in the loss of the little one's left hand. It seems that while running about the house the baby got hold of a giant powder cap, with which it was playing, when all at once the cap exploded, tearing the child's left hand all to pieces.

Dayton Chronicle: The grain fields of Columbia county, where we have noticed them, appear as well, if not better, than they did last year at this time. A continuance of warm weather like the present, however, will not help them much. Last year, after the middle of May, we had no rain to amount to anything for about six months, and if it should remain dry for a like period this year, the damage would be great, as the ground is not as wet as it was in May, 1883.

About a week ago a man named John Norley came here from Cross island with a gunshot wound in his left hand, and proceeded at once to the hospital. Saturday it was found necessary to have a surgical operation performed in order to save the man's life. Surgeons were called, and they amputated the left forearm, and it is thought the man will speedily recover, as he has a strong constitution and is but 25 years of age. He claims that the gunshot wound was accidental.

Yakima Signal: The Yakima Indians will hold a meeting next Saturday to determine what shall be done toward granting the right-of-way through their reservation to the Northern Pacific for the Cascade branch line. It is said that the company has offered to give all Indians connected with the reservation free passes over the line for three years in payment for the privilege sought. Most of the Indians with whom we have conversed express not only a willingness but a desire to have the road pass through their country.

Mrs. L. A. Bonney died at her home in Puyallup valley on Saturday night last, after a protracted illness. Deceased came across the plains among the first pioneers of the territory, thirty years ago. She settled with her family in Pierce county, living the first ten years in Steilacoom and on the plain back of that town, at what was then known as the Bonney lake, now known as American lake. They then moved to Puyallup valley, and there have ever since dwelt. Mrs. Bonney was a most excellent, motherly woman, and her death will be heard of with regret by a large circle of acquaintances. She leaves a husband, Sherwood Bonney, and quite a number of children, including Lyman Bonney, Mrs. D. C. Shorey, Mrs. Ward Kellogg and Mrs. Geo. W. Harris of Seattle.

THE KITTITAS MINING REGION.

Something About the Quartz Ledges Opened and in Operation in this Valley.

ELLENSBURG, W. T., May 8.

The Cle Elum mining district comprises the mineral lands lying east of the summit of the Cascade mountains, and, generally speaking, that between Mount Stuart upon the east and the Snoqualmie pass on the west. The discoveries thus far made yield gold, silver, nickel and copper, and may properly be called smelting ores. Prospecting accomplished to date has covered but a very limited scope of the district, and that only upon the surface. The principal properties now under location are the Copperhead, Bullion, Centennial, Black Honeycomb, True Fissure and what is known as (I believe) the Hawk. These prospects are well defined upon the surface, and yield, by numerous assays, from $17 to $400 per ton in about equal proportions of gold and silver, 3 to 80 per cent. copper, a trace to 30 per cent. nickel, and $2 58 to $2800 in silver. Last season having been principally occupied in tracing these lodes and making proper locations, but little is known of the character of the ores at any depth, except as in the case of the Bullion, which at ten feet has changed from $3 50 silver and 80 per cent. copper to 40 per cent. copper and 18 per cent. silver sulphurets. A huge magnetic iron lode runs through the entire district alongside or in proximity to what is known as the "red" or porphyry formation, and between these the Copperhead lode has been traced from the Cle Elum river, six miles northeast, to contact with the granite formation in Mount Stuart. At several intervening points the Copperhead comes squarely to the surface, always with black oxide of copper on top, and developing into what is called by some "copper glance," and by others "gray copper," at [illegible] depth.

There is a [illegible] this lode at different points cropping sufficiently massive to run an ordinary smelter for years, and but little doubt exists as to the early development in this district of not only a rich but permanent smelting camp. Centrally speaking, the Cle Elum district is distant but fifty miles by easy route from Ellensburg, the county seat of Kittitas county, Washington territory, which is 150 miles from The Dalles, Oregon, its present river connection, and but forty miles distant from highly practicable connection with steamboats at Priest's Rapids, the head of navigation upon the Columbia. Between Cle Elum mining district and Kittitas valley are the "Peshastin" and "Swauk" mining districts, as also the recently discovered Tenaway coking coal fields. In the former district one 5 stamp mill and three arastras have been running for some six years upon gold bearing quartz which has averaged from $20 to $30 per ton in free gold.

Thus far the property has been in the hands of inexperienced people who have kept upon the safe side and have been content to work the ore for its free gold, while the richer sulphurets have gone down the creek. This season a new mill is being set up, as a so more complicated machinery for working the base rock, and for once the "discovery" owners have sunk upon their property to a sufficient level to give them a full year's run overhead in their mine. The Peshastin district is forty miles distant from Ellensburgh. In the Swauk district, which is but twenty-five miles distant from the same point, the principally developed quartz property is upon a reddish formation running throughout the entire district in [illegible], and developing at several points into veritable mountains of quartz. At its most prominent cropping it is called the Homestake, and whether it be porphyry or quartz, red cement, or gingerbread, as it has been variously called, it assays in free gold from $10 to $1000 per ton, and will yield in the pan from a $10 to a $120, prospect in coarse colors. Immediately under this Homestake lode lies what are known as the Swauk placers. From one creek claim some $60,000 is estimated to have been taken and from the contiguous high bars nugget gold has been drifted out, weighing in single instances as high as $120 and $700. There is now upon exhibition in Seattle $237, which I saw over this spring, the largest piece among which weighs $10. Eleven hundred dollars in wire gold was taken from a single crevice in one of our high bar claims, and a man can make $3 50 to $4 per day in our ground drifting for the coarse bed rock gold alone.

Three reasons have prevented the previous wholesale working of these high bars. First, the gravel is from eight to thirty feet deep and pay only being found in the gravel where the wash is extra heavy, ground sluicing would not pay enough more to supersede the drifting process. Second, to procure and carry out water for hydraulic washing was considered almost an impossibility. Third, men working the creek claims would not allow the high bar locators to fill into the creek, thus making it necessary for them to "crib up" their tailings which debarred the profitable use of water for even ground sluicing purposes. Having succeeded in securing creek ground for dumping purposes, and having secured some eight high bar locations, we made a survey and find that four miles of ditch or flume will bring almost unlimited water 150 feet above our ground, and after use at that point we can carry the same upon an immense body of good hydraulic diggings in Kittitas valley. Carried upon the same level this water can be utilized for transportation of magnificent timber abounding along the line, and will also furnish the irrigating medium necessary to render available a large body of government land.

Kittitas valley is fully twenty by twenty-five miles in extent. Grain and all ordinary crops can be excelled nowhere either for certainty or yield per acre. In the valley are perhaps 2000 souls. Throughout the county several other important settlements are springing up. Ellensburg is temporarily and in all probability permanently the county seat. Four general merchandise houses, several lesser establishments, two newspapers, a national bank, a $10,000 hotel, etc., are its leading local features. In the county are five grist, and sundry sawmills. There are not two deeded farms advertised for sale in the section. A large amount of railroad and some government land is yet vacant. In the county are probably 3500 people. When afforded an outlet our population could readily reach as many thousand. Climate exceedingly healthful; hot in summer but tempered by wind; cold in winter, but rendered highly agreeable by continual calm, which enables us to make the most of two to three months' sleighing usually at our disposal. All natural advantages are yet almost untouched, for the reason that under existing transportation conditions we are not able to help ourselves. We have not two crops on hand, and our people are putting in a third of much greater acreage. This is done upon strength of the expectation that the Cascade division of the Northern Pacific railroad will reach the valley soon. Should this expectation not be realized we will be compelled to look to the Columbia river for an outlet.

It seems strange to me that your Portland people overlook our region. Kittitas county could easily be rendered tributary to the Columbia river. The Big Bend settlement, now rapidly filling up, is already asking for river service, and I know of several townships of agricultural lands that could be settled up, and with the other sections pour their products into your channels. A heavy effort was made last season to construct a wagon road from Kittitas county to Seattle, 110 miles distant, via the Snoqualmie pass. This road is yet unfinished, and I do not know its present prospects for completion.

Our mineral prospects are not of a character to warrant a mad rush of people, but I will venture the assertion that Kittitas county will prove to be the banner mineral producing county of the northwest, and the further statement that its top prospects can not be beaten anywhere.

PERSONS AND THINGS.

Ex-Senator Sharon, whom Miss Sarah Althea Hill is suing for a divorce, is a well advanced man, with grown-up children, and he lives in an elegant mansion at Belmont, near San Francisco. His house is famous for its hospitality, but Miss Hill's invitations are infrequent.

Washington was childless; Adams' favorite boy died by suicide; Monroe had no son; Madison had no child; Van Buren's best son went to an asylum; Pierce's only child was killed on the railway; Polk had no child, and Johnson's only son was self-destroyed. Meanwhile neither Disraeli nor Palmerston had a son, and Napoleon III.'s boy died on a negro spear.

Blaine and Arthur were both born in the same year—1830. Randall, Edmunds and Conkling are two years older, having all been born in 1828. Although Edmunds is only 56, he looks like a man of 70. He is bald-headed, his beard and what is left of his hair are white, he has the dyspepsia, and he is stooped and prematurely old in every way.

William Preston Johnson is reported by the Rev. Henry M. Field to have said recently, Shiloh being the subject of the conversation: "When my father was shot and fell from his horse he gained a great victory; and if he had not been killed at that critical moment in two hours more he would have captured General Grant and his whole army."

Jefferson Davis recently said to a northern visitor that General Grant was a great military commander, but that Lee was the most skillful general in the Union army. Sherman was looked upon in the south as Alaric was by the Romans. He was their "scourge of God." He was cruel, yet a great strategist. McClellan was the best trained soldier in the army.

A friend of Mr. Blaine's said a few days ago that the man from Maine would make the largest amount of money out of his book that had ever been made by an American author. The whole edition of the first volume, 200,000 copies, was used up immediately, and the publishers are now printing a second edition of like amount. It is estimated that Blaine who refused a cash offer of $100,000 for his copyright from a New England house, will by his royalties, get $300,000 out of the work.

During their American tours Bernhardt, Langtry and Irving gathered in over a million dollars. Mrs. Langtry's total earnings were $229,660. Sara Bernhardt's are stated to have been $390,000 for twenty-six weeks, an average of $2154 for 181 performances. Mr. Irving's are given as $405,000, or an average of $2241. When Rachel appeared thirty-eight times in New York and Boston in 1855, the total receipts were 62,242 francs. Mr. Irving's greatest success was, perhaps, in Boston. In one week he played there to 27,000 hearers—something which he never did before. The week's receipts were $24,387.

The widow of Marshal Suchet, Duke of Albufera died in Paris the other day at the age of 90 odd years. She was married when Joseph Bonaparte was king of Spain, and received from him as a wedding gift one of the splendid hotels next to the British embassy in Paris. In the military correspondence of Napoleon I. we find the following letter, dated Paris, Dec. 5, 1811, and addressed to Berthier: "My Cousin—Write to Marshal Suchet to complain that his wife carries on a correspondence with Mme. de Saligny in which she speaks of what happens in the army; that these details should not occur in the letter of a lady, who ought to be acquainted neither with the number of troops nor their movements; she should speak merely of her health, and that is all." It is curious to think of the Duchess d'Albufera surviving this for 73 years.

[Special.]—The Chronicle this morning issues a special edition, devoted largely to Odd Fellowship. A history of the order from its beginning, with particular attention to its career in California, from the pen of T. J. Vivian, whose history of Knights Templarism, published last August, attracted so much attention, will occupy four closely printed pages; and three and a half pages more are devoted to the rosters of the various lodges in the state, containing in all 24,000 names.

Shipping Intelligence.

Arrived—Steamer Oregon, Polemann, 53 hours from Portland, via Astoria 43 hours, passengers and merchandise, to O. R. & N. Co.; British steamer Barnard Castle, Smith, Nanaimo, R. Dunsmuir & Sons. Sailed—Steamer Columbia, Bolles, Astoria; ship Palmyra, Minott, Nanaimo.

THE ODD FELLOWS' DEMONSTRATION.

San Francisco Makes the Day a General Holiday—The Ceremonies.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—The Odd Fellows are blessed with splendid weather. The day for their public demonstration is all that could be desired. The sun is shining brightly, but not too warm. The day having been proclaimed a legal holiday by Gov. Stoneman all business is suspended. From an early hour the streets were thronged with sight-seers, bent on amusement. A large number of visitors from neighboring towns and cities are present. Buildings are gaily decorated, and flags are floating from houses all over the city. Two hundred and ninety-four lodges are represented. The procession will be the most imposing Odd Fellows' demonstration ever held on this coast.

Punctually at the appointed hour, 11:45 this morning, the procession started on its line of march, both sides of the street, and windows, balconies and roofs were covered with spectators. Every lodge in the state had a representative in the procession. It is estimated there were 6000 in the parade. The procession was an hour and fifteen minutes in passing a given point.

THE CEREMONIES.

Arrived at the corner of Seventh and Market streets, where the corner stone ceremonies were performed the different divisions took up positions around the point of interest. John Wright, the architect, presented a jeweled trowel to Grand Master W. W. Morrow, with an appropriate speech. Grand Master Morrow's response and acceptance of the trowel was couched in short but expressive language. He said: "I shall take great pleasure in preserving this splendidly jeweled emblem of toil as a souvenir of this delightful occasion, and I doubt not that it will always serve as a generous reminder that nothing of consequence can be accomplished in this world without labor." In closing he continued: "Permit me to again thank you and wish you every success in the world that is before you. I will now proceed, as best I may, to execute your command."

At the conclusion of the ceremony the entire body of participants proceeded to the pavilion, where the oration and the poem of the day were delivered. Hon. John B. Harmon delivered the oration. An original poem for the occasion, composed by Clarence Tierney of San Jose, was read by W. E. Sheridan, the tragedian.

AT THE PAVILION.

The pavilion was crammed to its utmost capacity by friends of the Odd Fellows, who gathered this evening to take part in the closing exercises of the day. Hundreds were turned away, unable to obtain entrance. No such crowd has ever filled the immense building, except on the occasion of the Knights Templar conclave. The interior was splendidly prepared for the occasion. After the introductory ceremonies an exhibition drill by uniform degree camps was given, followed by a flag march and flag swinging by a number of young ladies, daughters of the attending members, who were also members of the San Francisco Turn Verein. Other performances were given, followed by a grand march, led by the grand master. This was the signal for the opening of the grand ball, which is now going on.

STATE DISPATCHES.

News Items from Astoria.

ASTORIA, May 14.—[Special.]—The Pioneer and Historical Society closed its annual session to-day.

George Hill, proprietor of the Varieties, was arrested to-day for the third time, for selling liquor without a license. Two jury trials resulted in his favor. His counsel makes the jurymen believe that because Hill has paid in to the city treasurer the amount required for license, the city council has no right to reject his application, which it has, every time Hill has applied for license, since it was rescinded for keeping a disorderly house. Hill claims another jury trial.

Several cannerymen were interviewed to-day, and complain that salmon are very scarce. They had fully expected the first big run before now.

The Baker City Stage Robbed.

MEACHAM, May 14.—[Special.]—The stage on the way to Baker City, when near Weatherby, was stopped on Tuesday in broad daylight, by two masked robbers, with a rifle and double-barreled shotgun. The treasure box was taken, and the pocket-books and watches of several passengers. The robbers got, in money and valuables from passengers, about $1000. It is not known what amount, if any, was in the box.

Boy Homicide Arrested.

RIDDLE'S, May 14.—[Special.]—Joseph Russell, who fatally stabbed Jesse Quine at this place, was arrested yesterday and was taken to-day by the deputy sheriff to Roseburg, where he was lodged in jail.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Grand Lodge I. O. O. F.

WALLA WALLA, May 14.—[Special.]—The Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Washington, met on Tuesday. The first business, election of officers, resulted as follows: Grand master, W. R. Dunbar, of Alimus No. 15, Goldendale; deputy grand master, George D. Hill, Olive Branch No. 4, Seattle; grand warden, H. E. Holmes, Enterprise No. 2, Walla Walla; grand secretary, Le F. A. Shaw, of Washington No. 19, Walla Walla; grand treasurer, G. W. Hall, of Olive Branch No. 4, Seattle; grand representative to the sovereign grand lodge, G. W. Alban, of Washington No. 19, Walla Walla. On motion the grand master and the grand secretary were authorized to send a congratulatory telegram to the Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., of California, now in session. A special memorial committee was appointed to draft resolutions of condolence on the deaths of Past Grands Joshua Vansant and A. B. Grosh. The next grand lodge meets at Olympia.

The Methodists.

PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—At the conference of the Methodist church to-day, Bishop Morris in the chair, Rev. L. Lakin of Central Alabama conducted the exercises. Rev. D. Nast was invited to the platform, as was also Rev. J. G. Miller from Lincoln, Neb., who subscribed last evening $20,000 to church extension. Resolutions were adopted that a committee of thirteen be appointed to nominate trustees for church institutions. The matter of report of the committee on episcopacy, relative to the residence of a bishop in India, was taken up. Rector John of Minnesota was in favor of a substitute that the bishop for the next four years be requested to give such attention to foreign work as its interests demand. Judge Reynolds said the judiciary committee had reported it to be legal to fix the residence in India or Europe. Rev. Dr. Bell of Ohio said there was a provision for diocesan episcopacy in the third restrictive rule, and the question was simply as to the establishment of a residence in India.

GOVERNMENT FOR ALASKA.

There is satisfaction in making the announcement that congress has at last passed an act to establish and maintain civil government in Alaska. No doubt the president will approve it. Then if the government of the territory is placed in good hands there will be an end of the despotism that has controlled it ever since its acquisition by the United States. We bought the territory from Russia some seventeen years ago for $7,500,000 in cash. As soon as possession was given a lease to the Alaska Commercial Company placed the whole territory virtually in the hands of a monopoly whose members have become millionaires through special privileges granted in a territory bought by and owned in common by the whole people. It was proper enough for the government to take measures to prevent extermination of the seals; but the regulations demanded and secured by the Alaska Commercial Company for their own protection and profit closed the territory virtually to all other citizens of the United States. Not even a prospector could go there with his gun without the consent of the masters of the country. It has been the policy of the monopoly to have Alaska described as a comparatively worthless region, scarcely habitable by white men, whose climate is too severe for American settlers, and whose resources are limited and scarcely worth developing. These statements are false, and were designed to lull the public mind into forgetfulness and to leave the monopoly in undisturbed possession of its preserves. The fact is, that Alaska, besides its well known valuable seal and salmon fisheries, abounds in the finest kind of ship timber in gold, silver, copper and other metals, in animals producing the furs of commerce, aside from seals, and is not the uninhabitable region depicted by the organs of the monopoly. The climate is not so severe as represented—at least in the southern half of the territory, where the atmosphere is tempered by the warm oceanic current which sweeps along in proximity to the shore.

Long ago this territory ought to have been provided with civil government and thrown open to the people for settlement and development. Many immigrants to our shores, particularly those from the north of Europe would prefer just such a climate as that of Alaska. There are several thousand Russian inhabitants who had settled in the territory before the purchase. These Russians were guaranteed protection by the United States government when the transfer was made, but they have not received it. They have several times petitioned the government at Washington that such protection might be furnished, but till now in vain. They have been left all these years to the tender mercies of a close corporation endowed with despotic powers. In the list of territories, as given in official documents, Alaska has not hitherto been so much as mentioned. Foreigners in search of information about this country would never learn from these sources that such a region as Alaska existed. Hitherto all territory acquired by the United States has been speedily subdivided and put promptly under regular territorial governments, and the people had their local political privileges, while the general interests were under control of the federal government. Not so with Alaska. It has been a part of United States territory for nearly two score years and yet has had no government. In the interests of the fur seal monopoly it has been condemned to anarchy or to solitude. This, fortunately, is now to be ended. Alaska, within a few years, will be the home of many thousands of active, industrious and hardy people. It will become the seat of an extensive commerce, whose benefits the whole country, and particularly the Pacific coast, will share.

EXORBITANT FEES.

It is estimated that Roscoe Conkling's income from law is more than $100,000 a year. The Hoyt will contest, in which he is now engaged, will reward him very handsomely for even the greatest effort of his life. The late Jesse Hoyt left an estate valued at about $8,000,000 or $10,000,000. The proceedings are brought on behalf of Mary Irene Hoyt, his daughter, who received under the will the income of $1,250,000; Mrs. Helen Maria Hoyt, the widow, received a like sum, with power to dispose of $750,000 at her death. Several allowances have already been granted to the mother and daughter pending the decision, the last being an allowance of $50,000 each. Mr. William M. Evarts is opposed to Mr. Conkling, and both are assisted by the usual legal drudges provided in great cases; and all of them will charge scandalously large fees.

A New York judge not long ago refused to confirm the report of a referee in an assigned estate, because of the exorbitant fees allowed the lawyers engaged in settling it up. He hinted that such charges—one, for instance, where an attorney was allowed $400 for costs on an undisputed claim of $150 against the parties who made the assignment, together with certain very large and extravagant allowances to counsel and assignee—practically countenance the confiscation of debtors' estates, leaving nothing or almost nothing for the creditors, no matter how large the assets or how reasonable the early expectations of the creditors for a fair dividend on their claims. No decision of a judge was needed to teach people that "a receiver, assignee or trustee should receive no more for his extra services than the statute allowed," and that "the allowances to counsel shall depend upon the value of the services rendered" and not on the reputation of the counsel. But such a decision was demanded in order to check the exorbitant legal fees which some lawyers have been in the habit of charging within the last twenty-five years. A few years ago a New York lawyer took $25,000 for drawing a summons. In the Taylor estate case two lawyers who acted as administrators before the discovery of the will, obtained for their services the handsome sum of $40,000. The agent who afterwards sold the real estate charged $96,000. Mr. Conkling was retained at a cost of $4000. In the suit against the Continental life insurance company the attorney for a thousand dollar policy holder asked the modest sum of $5689 42. These are examples of extortionate charges which the people usually look upon as signs of successful practice at the bar. They have grown up in the course of the speculative litigation through which many of the largest fortunes in this country have been acquired, and are illustrations of the character of the cases rather than of the ability of lawyers. When a wrecker attempts to steal a railroad his attorney must have a good round fee as a matter of course, and a dead man's estate, if large enough to be an object of avarice, is literally the carcass around which the eagles gather, and the size of their fees is generally in proportion to the audacity of the reasons for which the heirs attempt to break the will. Mr. Conkling may as honestly make $100,000 a year in his practice as hundreds of other lawyers make less, but it is not a sign of health in the body politic when such enormous fortunes are made in the practice of the law. They cannot be made in the honest administration of justice. The defeated party is either too badly defeated, or he had no case, when such fees can be afforded by either side. Justice is made so expensive as to amount to its denial to the poor when litigation is so costly. It gives the rich and the reckless and unscrupulous the advantage over the poor, who are compelled to submit to wrongs because of the cost of procuring their redress through the courts. The great estates which are now crumbling to pieces or shrinking so terribly in New York have been acquired, to a large extent, or at least their foundations have been laid in these colossal fees. These fees are a part of a bad system. It is a spoils system, in which the lawyers share with as little compunction of conscience their predatory clients.

GENERAL GRANT.

The people have not been lacking in their recognition of the services of General Grant, but they think he ought some time to say that enough has been done, and that it only remains for him to render still further services to his country, to which no citizen who has not given his life has paid his full measure of devotion. The question of past payments ought not to be opened again unless it is proposed that he shall go down to posterity as the one American whom it was impossible to satisfy, although the most liberal provisions had been made in his behalf. He forfeited popular sympathy when he united his fortunes with those of Jay Gould and other money kings in New York, and allowed sharpers to turn his reputation, which was a part of the possession of the common people whose blood was shed and whose pockets were emptied to gain it for him, to their own pecuniary advantage, and then to share their plunder. The revelations of his failure show that he was less scrupulous than his boldest critics had charged, and that he has allowed a less responsible man than Gould to use him in swindling honest and confiding men. It will not answer to say that General Grant was ignorant of the business of Grant, Ward & Co. That excuse was exhausted in the Babcock transaction. It was his business to know whether the $3000 he drew each month was honestly made or whether it was stolen. Judging from his entire record, public and private, we may fairly infer that he took this money without the slightest concern whether it came out of the earnings or from the principal of deposits with the firm so long as a crisis was delayed. In saying this we are expressing no new opinion of General Grant. While we defer to the general judgment of mankind respecting his military ability, we have always recognized a great defect in his personal character, and for that reason have resisted the efforts of politicians to magnify him still more as a public man. The great defect of his character is that he lacks a sense of civic honor, that he fails to recognize his obligations to rules of propriety and honor which are essential to a high condition of social or civilized life. This defect was illustrated in his nepotism, in taking presents while chief magistrate, and in treating the office as one of private and personal emolument, rather than public trust and responsibility. He should not be rewarded now for his disgraceful failure as a Wall street gambler, by making him a pensioner on the bounty of the people. There is probably but little, if anything, in the business methods of Grant, Ward & Co. which some members of the house would regard as disreputable, for many of them have obtained the money which elevated them to that dignity by methods that are no better. We should not expect from them any condemnation of the operations with which General Grant is associated either as principal or beneficiary. But we have a right to ask them to defer a few days until more is known, or the little that is known is hushed up, before they tax the people to make good his Wall street losses. We are not in favor of undue haste in placing him on the retired list of the army. He has ample means to provide for his comfort, and for the present this is enough.

A stand has been taken by the Chicago board of trade against gambling in grain margins, as carried on in the "bucket-shops." But it would be much more impressive if the board would not, while discountenancing gambling on small margins in the bucket-shops, look with leniency and even with approval on the large-sized gambling done within its own precincts. Putting up $50 on a fictitious thousand-bushel transaction in the bucket-shops is demoralizing and intolerable. Putting up $500 on an equally fictitious transaction of 10,000 bushels in the Chicago board is regarded with much favor by the Chicago moralists. Can it be possible that this stern determination is directed solely against that class of gambling from which the Chicago brokers make no money? If the Chicago board of trade wishes to perfect the work of reform which it has begun by waging its crusade against the bucket-shops, it can do so by stamping out all margin speculations within its own walls. By doing a little in the way of plucking the beam out of its own eye it may relieve itself from the charge of being the greatest aggregation of barely disguising gambling to be found between the two oceans.

The ruthless plucking and destruction of arbutus by flower venders is awakening some deserved complaint in Massachusetts towns where this favorite flower is found. The following lines from an English writer will show that it is no new thing to have large areas shorn of wild flowers by ignorant and avaricious pickers. "Every year," says the writer, "the primrose, wood anemone, harebell, marsh-marigold and other spring flowers recede further and further from the town, and if the depredations of hawkers are not checked, Sussex is doomed to become a flowerless country. These spoilers go two or miles off in search of primroses, not only denuding the wayside banks, but carrying off wild rhododendrons from the woods, ferns, ivy, gorse, cuckoo pint, hazel blossoms—anything, in fact, they can lay hands on. In the case of flowers, the mischief is aggravated by the custom of tearing them up by the roots."

The Boston Herald disputes the claim of the New York republicans that their party's continued ascendency is "indispensable to the republic's welfare." It insists that "any majority, honestly and fairly obtained, is entirely competent to make the laws and administer the affairs of this state or this nation, and may fairly be presumed to contain its full share of the intelligence, virtue and patriotism of the people." The claim of indispensableness is doubtless too strong, but there is a decided choice between the two opposing parties, and the desirableness of republican ascendency is likely to be again affirmed in the elections.

The enthusiasm of the democratic papers for Blaine is one of the most striking features of the political situation. Not even the republican papers which support him make a stronger showing for Blaine in their tables of delegates, or are more confident that he is sure to be nominated, or more pleased at such a prospect. Inasmuch as the democrats desire the nomination of the man whom they can most easily beat, the remarkable favor which they show the Blaine candidacy is full of significance. Perhaps Mr. Conkling's reported desire to see him nominated proceeds from the same unkind spirit.

The high license oil in the New York legislature will fail, owing to the opposition of the prohibitionists, who prefer again to go without bread rather than to take half a loaf. In nearly all the leading states every victory gained by the rum interest in legislation has been gained by the help of the prohibition enthusiasts. A radical prohibitionist is opposed to the beauty and pleasantness of the dawn, for he wants the full glare of sunrise or nothing; and he will not take soup, because it is simply a foretaste of his dinner, which he wants all at once.

On Monday and Tuesday the liquor cases from Portland were argued, on rehearing, before the supreme court. Counsel for the appellants—liquor dealers—occupied about six hours, and counsel for respondent—the city—about two and a half. No new points were raised by the appellants, who in their arguments went again over the ground traversed in the briefs first filed. Inasmuch as these points have once been passed upon by the court, there would seem to be no reason to suppose that the former opinion will be reversed.

General Grant's Wall street difficulties have resulted in more information about that $250,000 fund than the public has hitherto been in possession. Up to this time there has been more or less mystery about the fund, and not a few people have whispered that they did not believe the "fund" had any existence save on paper. George Jones of the New-York Times, who was chiefly instrumental in raising it, has always refused to tell how it was invested or who controlled it. There was also a story at one time that it had been put into certain securities that were practically worthless, which some of the big subscribers to the fund had for sale. But now it is stated by no less an authority than Mr. Childs of Philadelphia, who was one of the heavy subscribers, that the fund is intact, is well invested, and in charge of the Morgan estate. Neither General Grant nor his creditors can touch it. The income from it which can hardly be less than $15,000 a year it would seem ought to keep the wolf from the door.

It is said that the Edison company were preparing to send Henry Villard to Europe as a commercial agent, but some of the men in Edison were also holders of Oregon Improvement stock, which dropped because it was discovered that the coal lands which were supposed to belong to the Improvement company in Washington territory in reality had never been transferred to it by the Northern Pacific, and were not likely to be. Hence coolness, and Villard is said to be looking for a job on a morning paper.

Richelieu Robinson has just been telling congress that he wants the officers of the United States navy "to fish for distinction in the limpid lakes and clear running streams of their native land, and not go bobbing for eels in the muddy waters of despotism."

NATIONAL EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

SALEM, May 12.

Arrangements have been made by the several state superintendents, and leading teachers of the United States, to hold the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the National Educational Association at Madison, Wisconsin, July 10 to 18, 1884. The state board of education of Oregon have been earnestly requested to take active steps in this matter, and co-operate in securing an interest in the work of the National Association, in the state, by extending an invitation to all superintendents, school officers and teachers.

In order, therefore, that the teachers and friends of education in this state may have an opportunity of attending the association (as well as visiting the eastern states) at reasonable rates, the Northern Pacific Railway Company have arranged to make the following round-trip excursion rates from Portland, Oregon, to St. Paul, Minnesota, viz:

| No. persons. | | No. persons. | |
| 10 each | $155 00 | 45 each | $130 00 |
| 15 " | 150 00 | 50 " | 125 00 |
| 20 " | 145 00 | 55 " | 120 00 |
| 25 " | 150 00 | 60 " | 115 00 |
| 30 " | 145 00 | 65 " | 110 00 |
| 35 " | 140 00 | 70 " | 105 00 |
| 40 " | 135 00 | 75 " | 100 00 |

Tickets good for ninety days, but not good returning until thirty days after purchase, and the excursion party must travel together to the east. They may return singly, if they so desire.

The exhibit will be organized into twelve departments, viz:

1. Main exhibition.
2. Department of industrial education.
3. Art department.
4. Kindergarten department.
5. Exhibit selected from the National Educational Museum.
6. Exhibit of pedagogic literature.
7. Ward's museum of mineralogy, geology and zoology.
8. Exhibit of school architecture, including ventilating and heating apparatus.
9. Exhibit of school journals and other current educational publications.
10. Department of apparatus and supplies.
11. Department of school books.
12. Department of school furniture.

It will be the aim of the managers to make this the most extensive and useful exhibit ever given of the products of public school work, technical schools, manual training schools, city and private schools collected from foreign countries and all parts of the United States and Canada. The plans of this grand exposition have been fully matured, and it has received the aid and approval of men of judgment and scholarship in all parts of the country. It is intended to accommodate the demands from every state for space for special exhibits, and in order that room may be reserved it is necessary that application for space be made at the earliest practicable day, to Hon. James H. Smart, director, Lafayette, Indiana.

Having learned that there is an excursion party being organized from Portland to Madison, the state board of education have requested Professor T. H. Crawford, city superintendent of schools, Portland, to act as assistant manager for Oregon. All persons desiring to visit Madison and the eastern states at the favorable rates mentioned elsewhere, will correspond with Professor Crawford without delay, stating the rate at which they will agree to go, viz:

A. B. writes, "I will go for the $150 rate."
C. D. writes, "I will go for the $130 rate."
E. F. writes, "I will go for the $110 rate," etc.

All who wish to go at some special rate, as above, and all who will go at any figure mentioned in the schedule of reduced rates, will notify Prof. Crawford not later than June 10. Parties writing are requested to give full name, postoffice address, and inclose two-cent stamp for answer.

The excursion party will leave Portland from July 1 to 7. When the time has been definitely fixed, tourists will be immediately notified. It is desirable that Oregon be represented in the national exposition, and all teachers, members of college faculties academies, etc., who may wish to carry with them special exhibits of map-drawing penmanship, crayon work, industrial drawings, etc., (from their own schools) are specially requested to do so.

NOTICE.

The firm of Leahy & Solis, doing business in Portland, Oregon, is this day dissolved, owing to the intended departure of both gentlemen to San Francisco. Those desiring to communicate either with Mr. Leahy or Mr. Solis can do so personally by calling at our office, First and A, up to May 19. After that date, by addressing them care of J. L. Sanford and Co., Real Estate Brokers, 230 Montgomery street, San Francisco, Cal.

We have transferred our business to Mr. J. H. Marshall, Real Estate and Stock Broker, who will continue the business at our old office over the Merchant's Exchange, First and A. All stock accounts have been transferred to him. Mr. Marshall being a gentleman of character and ability and having a thorough knowledge of the stock business, we recommend him to our past and present patrons. We shall leave our personal affairs in the hands of Mr. Marshall, and all rents and other moneys payable to us will be receipted for by him.

VITALIZER.

MANHOOD RESTORED. By using the great Vitalizer, the King of all Restoratives.

—THE—

King of all known Remedies.

"IT IS BEYOND DOUBT THE MOST RELIABLE, used and PERMANENT TONIC to the reproductive organs of both sexes known. It acts directly upon the nervous system. It restores debilitated functions of the principal organs of the body and is unsurpassed as a Nervine. It is a powerful, permanent and determined Aphrodisiac. It is an Alterative and Aperient of excellent fine quality. It relieves weakness and pains in the kidneys; it prevents losses from the system from unnatural causes; it cures frontal headache, pimples on the face, loss of memory, relaxed condition of the nervous system, indigestion, sour stomach, diabetes and all urinary troubles. Those who have failed before and all should immediately give the VITALIZER a trial. It is the King of all. It has never failed in a single case. The company will pay $500 for a case it will not cure, no matter whether complicated or not. The combination of the VITALIZER is such that it cures both simple and complicated cases. This is owing to a practical experience of 30 years. Dr. A. & Co. will guarantee a permanent cure in every case taken under their treatment and special advice. Time required is from one to three months' treatment. If the great VITALIZER fails, the money paid for the remedy will be refunded or stop forfeited. Call or write for our "Observations on Manhood," which will enable the sufferer to answer the necessary questions, so that each can have the proper remedy forwarded suitable for his special case. CONSULTATION FREE—CONFIDENTIAL. Price of the great VITALIZER, $2, six bottles in case, $10, SUFFICIENT TO CURE MOST CASES—sent by EXPRESS on receipt of price or C. O. D.

LADIES suffering from diseases peculiar to their sex, invaluable aid and speedy cure obtained. Our Female Monthly Pills are unsurpassed as a regulator. Sent on receipt of price $3.

FINE BARLEY.—In the office of Collector of Internal Revenue Cartwright can be seen a bundle of green barley, a fair sample of the field from which it was pulled near The Dalles on May 1st. It is over three feet in height and has long fine looking heads. There is a much larger acreage than usual sown to barley in Wasco county this year, and it is likely to prove a more remunerative crop than wheat. Barley is considered superior to any other grain for horse feed and larger quantities have been imported here for that purpose and for brewing. Wasco will raise enough to supply that section this year and it is probable that in future but little barley will be imported into this state.

DOUBLE FIRE.—Yesterday afternoon a boy came running to Two's engine house out of breath and nearly prostrated, saying that his mother's house near the Oregon steam bakery was burning. The engine and hose cart started immediately and found the fire was in a lot of dry leaves in a hollow about ... yards ... of the improved part of West Park ... A dwelling was in close proximity ... the alarm ... minutes the work was done ... there was no further danger.

CLEARED $1410.—Oregon commandery No 1 Knights Templar have instructed Recorder B. ... Whitehouse to draw a warrant for $1440—the net proceeds of the ball at the pavilion—to present to the ... Relief Society as a contribution to the fund for building a home. The commandery generously paid for the canvas used in covering the floor of the hall which cost $300, thereby increasing the net proceeds that amount.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.—William Moss, arrested for passing bogus money, was up before United States Commissioner Paul R. Deady for examination. He denied his guilt and said that Hamilton, who was arrested on the same charge some time since and is now under indictment, furnished the gilded nickels and passed them. The examination was continued and a subpena issued for Hamilton to testify in the case.

DAMAGE CASE.—The case of C. M. Reed against the Oregon Improvement company for $5,000 damages for injuries sustained on one of his legs while working at the Albina coal bunkers was on trial in the state circuit court all of yesterday. Just before court adjourned the case was given to the jury, who were unable to agree at one o'clock and were then forced to lock up for the night.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.—There will be a special meeting of the common council this evening to transact some important street business. The reason for calling a special meeting is that S. B. Irwin, who was appointed one of the viewers in several proposed street improvements, is going east and it is necessary that his reports should be received before his departure.

ATHLETIC ENTERTAINMENT.—The Olympic Club and the Portland Athletic Club have agreed to combine their forces and give a grand athletic and gymnastic exhibition at Mechanics' pavilion on the evening of Thursday the 9th inst. The affair promises to be one of the best of the kind ever given here and as it is to end with a ball offers a double attraction and will no doubt be well patronized.

OVERLAND PASSENGERS.—Passed Heron, yesterday, to arrive here to-day: G. F. Williams, Mrs. Morse, A. G. Hinson, D. A. Trotter, H. H. Horsey, W. D. Tyler and family, Mrs. J. H. Turner, Mrs. J. H. Mathews, C. H. O'Brien, W. A. Bodine, W. R. Wells, W. Lemeton, W. H. Bonham, W. B. Reese and Max Rower.

DECISIONS TO BE ANNOUNCED.—Judge Smith in the state circuit court will announce decisions this morning in the cases of McCraken vs. Molson & Son, demurrer to complaint; E. Stintana vs. H. F. Lydeson et al, demurrer to complaint; E. S. Kearney vs. Jos. Teal, objections to confirmation of sale.

BRIEF MENTION.

Philip Saunders, arrested for an assault with a dangerous weapon upon O. E. Belcher, was yesterday released from his bail bonds, the grand jury having returned not a true bill in his case.

The M. E. Sunday school will have a picnic at Summit station on Saturday. There is a beautiful grove and fine spring of water at Summit which render the place very suitable for picnic parties.

The store of Sun Lee & Co. on Second street between Washington and Alder, which was on Tuesday attached by L. E. Thompson, was closed last night by a fourth attachment in favor of I. R. Lawson for $1088.83.

The Multnomah county democratic committee meet this evening to take action on the resignation of William A. Daly, the convention's nominee for county treasurer. It is not yet known who will be named to fill the vacancy.

A case brought in Justice Bybee's court by William Ogburn against William Bates and Lane Warren, charging them with the larceny of some tools in Sellwood, was yesterday dismissed, the complaining witness paying the costs.

Dan Gallagher, indicted for stealing a twenty dollar silver watch a week or two since and who plead not guilty to the charge, yesterday morning entered a plea of guilty and was fined ..., in default of which he is confined in the county jail.

F. Cook, who rooms over Labbe's grocery store, Second and Washington streets, complains that the sounds of revelry from Sam Neville's den, corner Third and Washington, during the early morning hours prevents him from sleeping.

General Manager Koehler, Superintendent Brandt and Chief Engineer Morris of the O. & C. road, accompanied by three government inspectors, left for southern Oregon yesterday morning to inspect that portion of the line recently completed.

Ellen Lowrie, aged 11 years and 5 months, whose mother is a poor widow residing at 124 Washington street, died Tuesday of spasms of the brain, and was buried to-day by Coroner Cooke. Kind friends aided the mother in defraying the burial expenses.

One of the three cars heretofore running on Eleventh street has been taken off and an extra horse put on each of the other two, the speed of which has been increased fifty per cent, thus enabling the two cars to cover the distance in the same time formerly occupied by three.

While political clubs are being formed on every hand it is rather singular that the democrats do not take much interest in the organizations. They rather stand back and permit the republican kickers who have fused with them to get up the boom and probably also to put up the money.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE TIVOLI.—Olivette continues to pack this favorite place of amusement and proves as popular as the opening opera. In the famous Torpedo and the Whale song, some local hits are introduced which take immensely. The question whether Portland will support a good comic opera company at reasonable prices of admission is settled. It will.

MCCALLISTER.—After a successful tour of the ... Miss Phoss McAllister will return here for two farewell nights next Monday and Tuesday. On Monday Gilbert's comedy Engaged.

THE STRATEGISTS.—We are to have four more performances of Our Strategists next week, namely Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and Saturday matinee.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Tate has returned from a business trip to Albany.

L. Kohn of Prineville has returned to the city, will remain a few days and then go to San Francisco via the Sound.

A reception to the Rev. J. Q. A. Henry, the new pastor of the Baptists, will be held in the church to-morrow evening.

Rev. Frederic R. Marvin has gone east on business but expects to be in his pulpit again early in June. During his absence Rev. J. H. Acton will fill the pulpit of the First Congregational church of this city.

Judge A. L. Wait, J. J. Daly and W. T. Cook, who go east with the Child excursion to-day, are delegates to the democratic national convention which meets in Chicago. A. G. Hovey also a member of the party is a delegate to the republican national convention.

RIVER AND BAR IMPROVEMENT.

The Board of Trade Telegraph Strong Resolutions to Washington, Asking More Liberal Appropriations.

A special meeting of the board of trade was held yesterday afternoon, President Macleay in the chair, and a very large number of members present. The telegram of the board to Congressman George and his answer, published in yesterday's OREGONIAN, were read, whereupon the following resolutions were read and unanimously adopted:

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States in Congress assembled: Your petitioner, the board of trade of Portland, Oregon, would most respectfully state that it has heard with deep regret that no appropriation for the improvement of the mouth of the Columbia river has been recommended to your honorable bodies, and that the amount suggested to be appropriated for the improvement of the lower Willamette and Columbia rivers is greatly inadequate to the proper continuance of the existing project for such work formulated by the United States engineers and approved by the honorable the secretary of war described on page ... report of the chief of engineers of the United States army for the year 1882.

Your petitioner believes that the importance of these great works from a national standpoint has been greatly underestimated. The engineering project for the improvement of the river from Portland to the sea has already demonstrated its usefulness, each step in its progress being marked by increased depth of water and better channels. For these reasons your petitioner claims that your honorable bodies would be forwarding an important trade and would be aiding just so to one of the nation's greatest natural highways by appropriating the full amount called for in the estimate of the United States engineers as set forth on page ... report of the chief of engineers, United States army for the year 1883. Your petitioner also believes that the improvement of the mouth of the Columbia river is a work that should be begun without delay. The rapid increase in population of the Pacific northwest, the enlarged acreage of the grain fields, the present and prospective extension of its commerce with European, Atlantic and home ports justify the prediction that the good to accrue from the appropriation asked would more than repay the expense.

A long discussion ensued over the advisability of sending a delegate from the board to Washington who should again urge the claims of the Pacific northwest, and it was finally decided to telegraph the resolutions just passed, signed by the president and the secretary, to Senators Dolph and Slater and to Congressman George. This was done last night.

THE PILOTAGE BILL.

Captain N. Ingersoll, chairman of the navigation committee, submitted a report on the national pilotage law, which had been sent to the board by Senator Dolph. The committee thought that while the law contained many good points it was not suited to the needs of the Columbia river nor of the Pacific coast. The report was adopted as the sense of the board. Adjourned.

THE EAST SIDE.

ANOTHER BUSINESS BRICK.

The following bids were opened yesterday for a two story brick to be erected for Stephen Bailey on the lot between DeBoest's and Bodo's buildings on the east side of Fourth street between I and J: C. O. Blakely $...; John Becker $6135; L. S. Reno $5725; J. L. Mayo $5...; ... Stokes & Co. $5450; Sharno & Davidson $5.95...; P. O. Lundin $5600; O. R. De Burg $507...; A. C. Townsend $5700; J. N. Blagen $...; C. O. Blakely being the lowest bidder was awarded the contract. The building will be 75x40 feet, the lower portion divided into two stores, with a stairway between, and the upper story arranged for offices. Work will be commenced forthwith.

A CHANCE FOR ALL.

Citizens of East Portland will have abundant opportunity Friday evening to gratify their several tastes in the matter of entertainment. In the Second ward there will be a boom for the fusion ticket at Hall & Stott's hall; in the Third ward the engine house will ring with enthusiasm for republicans; who want fusion with ... are not politically inclined, or who wish a respite from fusion and confusion, can attend the musical and literary entertainment at the Congregational church in the First ward, or the fan party at Stott's hall in the Third ward. It would be advisable for many politicians to attend the latter and get fanned.

NOTES.

Old Peter Riley and Mrs. Chase, who were married Sunday last, were the recipients of a lively charivari Tuesday evening at their residence at the car shops.

A lady's portemonnaie was picked up on the ferry slip yesterday by Mr. John DeBoest. Owner can have the same upon application and proving property.

A little girl of this city, who is blessed with a profusion of curly blonde hair, was recently shorn of several of her tresses by a dexterous thief, who made good his escape.

Professor Garrison has been permitted to organize a class in ... at the Central school. He had a similar class at the school last year and gave general satisfaction.

The ladies of the Congregational church Holladay's addition propose giving a musical and literary entertainment at the church Friday evening. The newly organized orchestral club will take part.

Two children, daughters of Messrs. Brooks and Shultz of Tibbetts, respectively one aged 3 years, the other 4, became lost last evening and their whereabouts had not been discovered up to a late hour.

N. B. Crane, railroad mail agent on the east side, was seized with ... stroke while on his usual route yesterday and returned home by the Albany express, being conveyed to his residence in a carriage.

Mrs. Wetmore is having a two-story building erected on the corner of Fourth and Clay streets, Holladay's addition, the lower story to be arranged as a store, the upper story for a hall. The fire company will probably engage the hall for meeting purposes.

Willamette park, Dr. Chapman's property, on Fifth street, has been secured for the coming Fourth of July celebration in East Portland. The park is now being improved and beautified and a suitable building erected thereon. It is probable that other grounds will also be engaged.

The reasonable price asked for property in Stephens' addition has created quite a little boom in the building line. Residences are going up in all parts of the addition, to say nothing of the large and handsome hall being erected by Mr. James Gruner opposite the school house.

The improvement of Fourth street from the bridge to within one block of the city limits by a sixteen foot plank roadway and four foot sidewalks was completed yesterday. The contractors, Messrs. Frulney & Johnson, have done a good job and there is no chance of a lawsuit this time.

The clearing of the brush from streets in Holladay's addition between Fourth street and the river will be completed by the street commissioner this week. He has also cleared Sixth street from Holladay avenue to the school house—an improvement appreciated by those attending the school.

The confusion of the names of Portland and East Portland becomes worse confounded when reference is made to north East Portland precinct. The papers almost invariably publish it as northeast Portland instead of north East Portland, conveying the idea that the precinct is in the northern part of Portland instead of the northern part of East Portland.

At the regular meeting of the Third Ward Hook and Ladder Company Tuesday evening the committee in charge of the recent relief ball made a report which was accepted and the committee discharged. Ten dollars additional were turned over to the company, which will be divided between the families for whose benefit the ball was given, and there still remains uncollected a small amount through the negligence of parties to whom tickets were entrusted for sale.

MARSHALL FOR COUNTY CLERK.

PORTLAND, May 13.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

THE OREGONIAN has repeatedly insisted that fitness to perform the duties of such offices as clerk and sheriff should be considered before the political opinions and affinities of the candidates. In this I most heartily concur, and it has been my custom to carry the doctrine into practice by voting for such candidates without respect of party for these and like offices as might appear to me best qualified to fill the positions they were seeking. In other words I have acted as I should act in engaging a servant to perform certain work for me and have endeavored to be influenced only by considering how to get the work done in the best possible manner.

Now I ask whether in endeavoring to defeat Mr. A. J. Marshall for county clerk you are following the doctrine you have so ardently insisted upon.

I have no personal preference between the candidates other than in connection with their respective abilities to serve the public. But I know that the duties of county clerk are not to be learned in a few months, and that they can be performed in a far more satisfactory manner by one fully familiar with them than by one less familiar.

Mr. Marshall has been for many years and under many chiefs a deputy county clerk and is thoroughly familiar with the duties of the office, the fact that he has been retained under so many administrations speaking best for the manner in which he has performed his labors.

I know whereof I speak and am sure that there are very few men in our midst as well qualified to fill this office as is Mr. Marshall.

These lines have not been written in the interest of Mr. Marshall, but in that of the public, who alone are entitled to consideration in the premises, and it is in the public interest that I ask their insertion.

ROBERT H. WILSON,
Searcher of Records.

ITEMS FROM THE DALLES.

THE DALLES, May 14.

Hons. L. L. McArthur and W. Lair Hill are in attendance upon the circuit court of Baker county at Baker City this week.

Small amounts of wool have already been brought to market. The wool company have at their warehouse about 250 bales of this spring's shearing.

Judge Bennett and the attorneys of this place who have been attending court at Prineville returned Monday. This term of court for Crook county was very short, continuing only one week.

The fruit prospects in and about town are said to be excellent. Most of the orchards which were injured by the severe winter of 1882-83 have been replanted and many new orchards were set out this spring.

The base ball club of Hood river came up here to play the boys of this place last Saturday for $100 a side. Owing to a change in the membership of the Dalles club the Hood river boys declined to play for money, but a friendly game played Saturday afternoon were beaten by the Dalles boys, the score standing 1... to 3.

Henry Barnum, who committed suicide at the Jackson house Saturday evening, left considerable property, which he disposed of by a will made a few weeks before his death. He had tried once before within a month to take his life, and by those who knew the circumstances was considered insane. He left letters addressed to his former wife and to his attorney. His remains were buried Monday afternoon.

Randall to be Read out of the Party.

Washington Special, May 7.

Mr. Clerk, see that d—d scoundrel who is paired goes between the ... is what the Hon. William R. Morrison of Illinois said when the vote was about to be taken on the tariff bill yesterday, and showed the temper he was in. That temper has not improved any to-day, for the late candidate for the presidency has made the atmosphere around the committee on ways and means blue with brimstone. He says he will carry the fight into the national democratic convention and have Sam Randall and his followers read out of the party. If the Randall faction have any fear of decapitation they do not show it in their faces or their actions. They look like and act like men who have won an independent victory. Mr. Randall himself has not seemed so happy before this session.

Gone East.

Mr. Andrew Roberts, proprietor of the popular clothing house corner First and Alder streets, has gone east for about six weeks to select more goods for his immense establishment. We would judge by the appearance of his shelves and counters that there is very little room left for more goods. His stock of gents' furnishing goods cannot be excelled in town. Fancy percale shirts and rowing shirts, also a beautiful line of neckwear, fancy nightshirts, etc. His stock of hats is as complete as any hat store in town. He is also prepared to do first class tailoring with a first class cutter. Give him a call.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND THE TARIFF.

A Leading Organ of the Low Tariff Men on Morrison's Defeat.

Louisville Courier Journal.

The democratic party to-day is in disgrace. Placed by an overwhelming popular vote in control of the house of representatives, it has accomplished nothing. To attempt to turn it aside from tariff agitation was folly; to suppose that the party itself will for a moment submit to the dictation and control of a handful of Beand Barouks is sheer idiocy. The caucus may not be able to control Messrs. Eaton, Converse and Randall, but an appeal lies from them to the national convention, and from the convention to the people. Party discipline, as far as this congress is concerned has been destroyed. Insubordination and insurrection have for a moment triumphed, but only for a moment. The people are in advance of their leaders, as they will soon discover. The fruits of our last victory have been frittered away, but the national convention must reorganize the party, punish deserters, and order cowards to the rear. We cannot retreat if we would. We must go forward or we must surrender. If the people want protection, as Messrs. Randall, Eaton and Converse claim, then they will see that the Government is given in charge of the republican party. The democratic party can not be trusted to maintain the protective system, which it has denounced as a masterpiece of iniquity.

The Democratic Tariff Fiasco.

Chicago Tribune May 8.

Probably no great political party, controlling by an enormous majority the popular branch of the national assembly, on the eve of contesting the possession of the government, ever made so humiliating a confession of imbecility as the democratic party has made in striking out the enacting clause of the Morrison tariff bill and abandoning the whole project of war-tax reduction.

This action would have been startling enough if it had been taken early in the session, thus frankly acknowledging the irrepressible dissension in the party. But the revenue reformers made a struggle to keep faith with the country. They won a victory at the outset by electing Carlisle as speaker. Morrison and his associates in the ways and means committee have been steadfast to the cause of tariff reduction, and they have acted with moderation. The proposed legislation has been discussed elaborately. It received the approval of the revenue reformers as a step in the right direction. The protectionists could not have expected a more reasonable bill if any measure of tariff reduction were to be proposed. The taxes are abstracting from the people $100,000,000 a year more than congress knows what to do with. To continue bleeding the people in this way is admitted to be sheer robbery and wholly inexcusable.

The democrats the day the vote was taken had a clear party majority of eighty over the republicans in the house. The latter opposed the bill for partisan reasons, just as the democrats opposed the republican revision bill of the previous session. But the republicans, with a very narrow majority, acted together and passed their bill, which has resulted in material relief. The democrats with their enormous majority have gone to pieces. They have confessed to the country that they are incapable of agreeing among themselves, and that no legislation whatever is to be expected from them on questions of the utmost financial importance to the people.

The democratic fiasco is not to be attributed to any differences as to details. The party has split upon the principle involved—upon the simple question of any reduction. The bill was not defeated because a reduction was proposed on the horizontal plan; any other scheme of reduction would have been similarly defeated by the protection democrats. Proof of this is to be found in the fact that six years ago, when the democrats were in control of the house by an immense majority, Colonel Morrison, then, as now, chairman of the ways and means committee, proposed a bill to reduce the tariff by means of a general revision, taking more off some articles, and less off others, and the measure met the same fate as his "horizontal" measure at this session. The protection democrats denounced his bill then for exactly the opposite objections raised against his present bill. It was said six years ago that his bill favored some commodities more than others; that it took too much tax off one article and not enough off another; and that the fair and equitable policy was to treat all interests alike. This winter he brought in a bill on that very plan, and it met the fiercest democratic resistance for the very reason that it was framed on the lines of equity and treating all alike.

The fact is that the democratic party, with an overwhelming majority in congress, is not prepared to reduce the tariff taxes by a horizontal cut of the tariff, nor by any revision thereof, nor by any other method of reducing the war tariff. It has made an open confession that its pretenses have been false, and that it has no policy upon which the country can place its trust.

A Wall Street "High Roller."

Chicago Herald.

While the effect of the Grant & Ward failure is not so disastrous to the fortune of General Grant as was at first supposed, it has served to reveal a pretty rotten state of affairs in the firm itself. This seems to have been a firm organized to do business in a rather spread-eagle way, and to have been the creation of old man Fish, of the Marine bank and young Ward, a "high roller" of Wall street. The Grants were lured into the firm to secure the name and influence of General Grant and the money which young Grant's father-in-law, ex-Senator Chaffee, had given his daughter. Nobody would certainly ever want young Grant, familiarly known as "Buck" as a business partner save for his money and his father's influence. The firm's affairs were run entirely by young Ward, assisted by Fish, and the former's administration was certainly a remarkable one. The day before the failure he gave his own checks for $215,000 on a bank in which he had less than $2000 on deposit, and boldly sent them through the clearing house by means of the Marine bank. They were rushed through, charged to the defrauded bank's balance, and by the time the astonished cashier could recover from his amazement, the shutters of the Marine bank were down. The injured bank thus loses $215,000, without so much as even knowing it until too late. Such financiering as that may stamp young Ward as a perfect Necker in raising the wind, but there is also a possibility that it may land him in jail, as the officers of the defrauded bank threaten to make it hot for him unless the clearing house restores its balance and throws out the bogus checks. Ward's career furnishes astonishing proof of the capacity of the young high roller to make a fool of himself. Eight years ago he was a clerk at $1000 a year. He made money in one way and another, and on the day before his bubble burst he had a brown stone palace in Brooklyn and a magnificent country seat at Sheepshead bay. He kept a French cook, a French butler, a French valet, and his wife had two French maids. He had twenty-four horses in his stables, a tally ho coach, two landaus, one English cart, and a pony phaeton for his wife, to say nothing of spider buggies and the like, in which to speed his trotters. From $1000 a year in 1876 he had grown so in alleged wealth that his household expenses alone were $1000 a week. And all this wild extravagance and recklessness in a man not yet 33 years old, and born and reared in poverty. It is a striking phase in the careers of the nouveaux riches that they never know when to stop spending money, and are never able to see how sensible people regard their follies. It may be thought strange that the Grants would ever ally themselves in a business way with such a fool spendthrift, but the Grants are not bursting with worldly wisdom themselves. The younger ones, especially, are not gifted with much greater sense than Ward, and, if they had money, would cut just as silly a splurge.

Quinine Ho ds Its Own.

New York Sun.

"No," said a perfectly healthy man, who was busily figuring up quinine orders in a William street wholesale drug store, "there has been no further reduction of the price of the drug. The bursting of the big quinine syndicate last February knocked the high prices completely in the head. They can't get any lower now unless the manufacturers give the drug away to the public. American quinine is selling it from $1 25 to $1 30 per ounce in the bulk, and the foreign made at $1 10 to $1 25. These are the lowest figures ever reached. An ounce of quinine will make 480 single grain pills."

"One cent a grain for the best Philadelphia quinine," said a clerk in a retail drug store, shaking a box full of the white pellets. "That's what we are selling the pills retail by the dozen for. The retail price is the same whether the drugs are sugar-coated, in a capsule or in powder form. A one grain pill with water to drink it with will cost you three cents."

"Sell you as much as you want for half a cent a grain," said an up town cut-rate druggist, rubbing his hands with a business like air and pointing to a huge closet full of pills and powders, "and keep on selling it as long as you want to buy."

A Foreigner's Warm Reception.

Boston Gazette.

A foreigner who recently visited Boston brought several important letters of introduction and received the customary circulars in return. The first evening he was invited to a dinner party at the old-fashioned abode of a noted host, where all went charmingly until the guests adjourned to the drawing-room. Then the unlucky stranger helped himself to a seat, which he drew over the register, of the old style, set in the floor, and which happened to be open. The heat gradually became intolerable, but our foreign friend dared not move away from the ladies with whom he was chatting, and, through entirely unconscious of the cause of his frightful suffering tried to bear the unnatural condition with well-bred stoicism. He looked about at the rest of the company to discover if any one was equally tortured but he found one and all at least pleased, as if the terrified heat was a part of the entertainment. Finally, unable to endure the situation longer, he abruptly rose and took leave, secretly marvelling at "those peculiar Americans who roast themselves in that odd fashion."

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

WEDNESDAY, May 14.

A Philadelphia wool commission house is sending out flaming circulars to wool growers of the northwest. The house appears to have just discovered some "cheap rates of freight on wool in sacks over the Northern Pacific railroad to Philadelphia" from all points on the company's main line. The circular has undoubtedly been widely distributed, and cannot but be considered a seductive bait to catch the unthinking grower. We call attention to the very important fact that the rate named—$2 83 per 100 lbs in car load lots—applies only to shipments from stations on the main line. The stations that can thus receive shipments are quite unimportant, as there are few of them near a wool shipping point. The rate does not cover any of the territory through which the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company operates. This note of warning is well worth heeding, for should growers away from the line of the Northern Pacific be led to shipping in this manner, they will find heavy and unexpected charges added. Portland wool dealers are enabled, by reason of the through tariff rates afforded them, to bring wool from any eastern Oregon and Washington point to Portland, pay for grading and baling, and then ship through to any of the eastern wool markets at a total cost for freight, grading and baling, less than the $2 83 named in the circular. Now that Portland has two extensive grading and baling houses in competent hands, there is no good reason why the interior should do business outside of Portland connections. The rate for shipping to Portland, baling and shipment east is $2 80 per 100 lbs., or less than from any point on the Northern Pacific. Besides, the grower has his wool baled and graded for the eastern market if he does not find satisfactory sale here. Growers are earnestly advised to thoroughly inform themselves before seeking business with commission men at the east.

With the exception of Improvement stocks the entire list is off to-day. If there is any such a thing as a "cold" day for a stock market this is one. As against yesterday's highest prices the following declines are given: Western Union 9; Northern Pacific 1⅜, preferred 4⅜; Transcontinental 8⅞; O. I. bonds 5⅜. O. R. & N. stock closed at 71 against 77 @ 75⅜ on Monday, no quotation having been received yesterday.

The New York Commercial List, commenting upon the present condition of affairs, says: Trade continues to move along with a quiet monotony that affords but little opportunity for fresh comment, and the aspect of commercial affairs is neither cheerful nor satisfactory. The speculative movement in progress is characterized by a feverishness that fairly reflects the unsettled feeling generally prevailing throughout mercantile circles, and the fitful fluctuations witnessed at the stock, grain, oil, cotton and coffee exchanges, which seem to spend their force almost before the varying currents have become appreciable to those outside the charmed circle, being nothing more than the efforts of reign at manipulators, and what are known as "room traders," to attract the attention of the outside public, who have been so often deceived before with the cry of "all aboard." The train is being pushed backward and forward upon a side track with much shouting and bustle, and a few timid ones, afraid of being left behind, get hastily aboard, but the experienced man of business stands quietly waiting for some indication that these switching operations are at an end, and that the onward journey has really commenced. In other words, the conservative, and perhaps substantial, portion of the speculating public quietly and patiently awaits the developments of a positive export demand for wheat; returning confidence in railway stocks and bonds; an awakening of manufacturing industry, a disposition on the part of dealers and consumers to purchase supplies beyond the actual requirements of the moment, and the more active employment of capital. Until some of these changes have commenced to appear these efforts to work up artificial excitement will be without significance, so far as indicating any substantial improvement from the chronic dullness of the past four months. Unsettled weather is always characterized by little flurries of wind, that cause the vane to fly about within the space of a few minutes to every point of the compass, and present experience suggests that at the moment commercial affairs are being subjected to just such fickle influences; but it is satisfactory to know that these uncertainties of wind and weather are always followed by a settled period of bright and healthful sunshine. The export movement shows that the outlet for grain and cotton is still unsatisfactory, and so long as foreign markets for these staple products of the soil refuse to relieve us of surplus supplies that cannot be consumed at home, the trade situation will still be weighted with the burden of carrying unwieldy stocks. The receipts of grain at the principal western points have not shown any material change during the past two weeks, although very much smaller than for the corresponding period during the previous three years, while the eastern movement shows that increased shipments to the coast have resulted from the opening of lake navigation, but this is merely a shifting of the load from one locality to another, for the limits of foreign buyers are too much below the current range of values to admit of any outward movement.

Overland receipts include 25 cs yeast cake, 15 cs canned goods, 3 bxs 1 bbl confectionery, 2 bbls yeast powder, 11 cs cheese, 20 cs eggs, 10 bls bagging, 18 bls cotton do, 53 pkgs tobacco, 1 tank car coal oil.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past, twenty-four hours: 1710 ctls wheat, 408 bbls flour, 361 ctls oats, 1310 lbs hides, 83 cs eggs, 12 bxs fruit, 12 bxs butter, 1717 lbs mohair. Also 920 ctls wheat, 49,410 lbs wool, 1045 lbs hides from the eastern section.

WHEAT—As a top offer for valley $1 47½ is named, and buyers are not anxious to purchase, having immediate wants supplied. All markets are easier to-day.

WOOL—Local market inactive as regards business. New York mail dates report: The market has not changed in any essential particular since our last issue, and there is very little of a new or interesting character to report. Buyers, as a rule, continue indifferent and are not disposed to purchase, except at liberal concessions, and in view of the gloomy outlook for manufactured goods, together with favorable indications of a large yield during the coming season, there is nothing to warrant consumers in anticipating future requirements. Reports from Texas are conflicting, some statements showing a firmer market, with an advance in values of one-half of a cent ₩ lb, and others to the effect that the market is dull and weak, with prices easier. The latter is generally accepted as correct. The London auction sales are progressing with very little variation in prices, and no purchases reported for the United States, as supplies can be bought here for less than cost of importation.

POULTRY—The market is well supplied with chickens, and values range from $5 50 to $6 50 for fair to good lots. Other poultry in small trading at old prices.

EGGS—Stocks are believed to be large, but holders are shading 22½c only on round lots. We note the arrival of 20 boxes from St. Paul.

THE COMSTOCK MINES.

The Vast Amount of Timber with which They are Filled—Smouldering Fires.

Reno Gazette.

W. H. Patton, the well-known mining superintendent, has been giving some interesting facts about some of the mines of the Comstock lode. He says a foot of timber was put into the bonanza for every dollar taken out. They paid $120,000,000, and into the hole left was packed 120,000,000 feet of timber worth two cents a foot. The timbers were laid in rather loosely and occupied about two-thirds of all the space, the one-third being divided up into thousands of cracks and openings in the corduroy, as it is called. The top earth keeps caving in and compresses all this work into one solid mass, and finally the cave reaches the outer crust and the surface settles. By this process twelve-inch timbers are crushed to seven, or nearly half their size. In these dark and distant caverns the wood decays and forms gasses which are frequently heard exploding. The wood is set on fire, and year after year it smoulders and smokes in a slow but terrible way. There are many places in the mines where the smoke works its way out and can be plainly smelled in the air. The largest body of territory that has been worked out and closed up is the old bonanza mines, and extends from the 1200 to the 1350 levels, and is 300 feet long. It was worked out from 10 to 200 feet wide and filled with timbers. There are many places on it now on fire, and it will smoulder for centuries unless it gets a draft of air somewhere, when it would break out into a terrible blaze. The gas generated in this way is of the deadliest character. It is confined by air tight bulkheads sixty feet thick, of solid timbers. Where the air has a downcast this is more necessary than the upcast shafts, which carry the gas out into the air instead of down where the men are at work.

There are three separate currents in the system of ventilation in the mines of the Bonanza Company. One is down the C. and C. shaft to the bottom of the 2900 level and up the Bonner shaft. It carries 1600 feet of air a minute. The third is down the Union and up the old Sierra Nevada shaft. It reaches 2900 feet and carries 12,000 feet a minute. This air goes down fresh and dry. At the bottom it gets heated up to 100 degrees or over, which increases its capacity for absorbing moisture. It comes out steaming from the mouth of the shaft and thus carries out of the mines 18,000 gallons of water a day, equal to a stream of one miner's inch of water.

Mr. Patton thinks the heat is caused by chemical action. There is some lime in the rock, and it would create heat when dissolved in water. Many think that feldspar makes heat when it decomposes to form kaolin. The mines are no hotter at 3100 feet than at 1500, except when a vein of hot water is tapped. That makes it seem hotter than it really is by heating up the air and at the same time increasing its moisture. Moist air at 10 degrees is harder to endure than dry air at 120 degrees.

Mr. Patton keeps record of the water raised, and he says it does not increase with depth. They have struck no new water at all, but drain all the levels above. No supply of water from the surface reaches them. They feel neither wet seasons nor dry at such depths. Mr. Patton says there is no reason to be discouraged at the prospect for the Comstock. The ledge is as perfectly defined and of as favorable formation for ore as it ever was. There are many streaks of good ore through it, and any day a bonanza might be struck. He says he can handle rock as cheaply at the 3100 with the machines now there as he could on the 1500 with what they had then. If there is a body of $20-ore 20 to 50 feet thick, and he can find it, he will be able to hoist and mill it for $20 a ton, which will make Virginia shine again.

Pipe smoking is the real test of a tobacco. It is the regal way of smoking. You get more directly at the flavor and fragrance. You take the smoke cooler, and the tonic cleanlier and safer. Pipe smoking is smoking reduced to a fine art.
The more the question of adulterated tobacco forces itself on the attention of smokers, the more desirable it becomes to know precisely what you are smoking. In Blackwell's Bull Durham Smoking Tobacco you have a guarantee, always, that it is Nature's own unadulterated product. Its fragrance, flavor, and unsurpassed quality, are derived from the soil and air. Try it, and you will be satisfied. None genuine without trade mark of the Bull.

OREGON HEARD FROM.
JOHN A. CHILD, Portland, Or., writes that he has sold WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY thirty-three years, and he knows it to be one of the oldest as well as one of the most reliable preparations in the market for the cure of Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung Complaints.
J. F. VENNER, Brownsville, Or., writes that several cases have recently came to his notice where he had recommended WISTAR'S BALSAM for Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung Complaints, and in every case the parties informed him that the Balsam had helped them. One old gentleman told him that the Balsam had saved his life thirty years before.
B. F. BELT, Salem, Or., writes: "WISTAR'S BALSAM has always given entire satisfaction, and those that have used it stick to it."
None genuine unless signed "I. BUTTS" on the wrapper.

A SKIN OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER.
DR. T. FELIX GOURAUD'S
ORIENTAL CREAM or Magical Beautifier
Removes Pimples, Freckles, Moth-Patches, Rash and Skin diseases and every blemish on beauty, and defies detection. It has stood the test of 31 years, and is so harmless we taste it to be sure the preparation is properly made. Accept no counterfeit of similar name. The distinguished Dr. L. A. Sayre said to a lady of the haut ton (a patient): "As you ladies will use them, I recommend 'Gouraud's Cream' as the least harmful of all skin preparations." One bottle will last six months, using it every day. Also, Poudre Subtile removes superfluous hair without injury to the skin. Mme. M. B. T. GOURAUD, Sole Prop., 48 Bond st., N. Y. For sale by all druggists and fancy goods dealers throughout the United States, Canadas and Europe. Beware of base imitations. $1,000 reward for arrest and proof of any one selling same.

POISON
In the blood is apt to show itself in the Spring, and nature should by all means be assisted in throwing it off. Swift's Specific does this effectively. It is a purely vegetable, non-poisonous remedy, which helps nature to force all the poison or taint out through the pores of the skin.
Mr. Robert A. Easley, of Dickson, Tenn., writes, under date March 30, 1884: "I had chills and fever, followed by rheumatism, for three years, so that I was not able to attend to my business; had tried almost every kind of medicine and found no relief. A friend recommended Swift's Specific. I tried one bottle and my health began to improve. I continued until I had taken six bottles, and it has set me on my feet, as sound and well as ever. I recommend it to all similarly afflicted."
Letters from twenty three (23) of the leading retail druggists of Atlanta say, under date March 24, 1884: "We sell more of Swift's Specific than any other one remedy, and three to ten times as much as any other blood medicine. We sell it to all classes, and many of the best families use it as a general health tonic."
I am sure that Swift's Specific saved my life. I was terribly poisoned with malaria, and was given up to die. Swift's Specific relieved me promptly and entirely. I think it is the greatest remedy of the age.
C. G. SPENCER, Sup't. Gas Works, Rome, Ga.
I have known and used Swift's Specific for more than twenty years, and have seen more wonderful results from its use than from any remedy in or out of the Pharmacopœia. It is a certain and safe antidote to all sorts of Blood Poison.
